DEDICATION

This book is dedicated to those murdered in the OKC bombing, to the survivors, to the family members of the victims and survivors, to brave witnesses and to those who tirelessly have investigated the case for over a decade. We can do no less to honor them than to do all we can to make such a tragedy and the attendant suffering less likely to happen again.

While the suffering of the bombing victims and survivors and their families continues, there is also suffering by key and brave witnesses to the bombing who did their public duty and came forward. Some of these bombing witnesses have to live with the fear that they may be retaliated against by others involved that the witnesses saw. These witnesses know these others involved are still on the streets of America and capable of attacking the witnesses to keep them silent. The FBI and some members of the U.S. Army harshly and improperly intimidated some of the key and brave witnesses. These witnesses still have to deal with concerns of retaliation from the FBI and U.S. Army.

This book is also dedicated to the memory of four people who passed away after diligently investigating the OKC bombing. They now know the complete truth.

Michelle Moore, author of, Day One, who wrote about the beginning hours after the OKC bombing revealing a flawed government explanation of events.

Brad Edwards of KFORTV in OKC who broke the story of Iraqi involvement in the OKC bombing.

Glen Wilburn, whose two grandchildren, Chase and Colton, were killed in the Murrah Building day care center.
PREFACE

On April 19, 1995 at 9:01 am, 169 people were murdered when the Alfred P. Murrah Building in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma (OKC), was bombed. 149 adults, 19 children and one unborn child died. The nineteen children were in the Murrah Building day care center. Over 800 people were injured. The casualties included federal employees, members of the public visiting the Murrah Building on business, and others in nearby buildings such as the Water Resources Board. Many survivors have serious handicaps and will need special care the rest of their lives including children survivors maimed in the day care center. The family members of the victims are still bearing heavy financial and emotional burdens. Until 9/11, the OKC bombing was the largest terror attack ever made on the continental U.S..

The FBI and Justice Department (DOJ) publicly insisted that the OKC bombing was carried about only by Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols without any direct assistance from others. The FBI and DOJ also insisted that there were no foreign connections to the OKC bombing.

Elected officials and government bureaucrats and some in the mainstream press accused those asking valid but unanswered questions of engaging in “conspiracy theories.” Many who believed that others were involved did not believe the government conspired to blow up their own building. But some in the public believed that if there was a government conspiracy, it was a conspiracy after the bombing to cover up government failures.

Government officials also belittled and dismissed out of hand the strong evidence that there were serious prior warnings of the OKC bombing. Yet authorities took the warnings seriously enough to warn the federal family. But they made no effort to forewarn the public visiting the Murrah Building nor to try to preempt the OKC bombing.

Amazingly, some government officials unfairly attempted to pit the public against itself and witnesses and investigators by preposterously claiming there were only two choices to believe: “You either believe the government’s version of events or you believe that the government blew up its own federal building in OKC.” This tactic was designed to protect these officials from accountability and liability. It was an unfair and dishonest tactic used to divert the public from the fact that there is an alternative choice, a third choice- the choice of what really happened that is supported by facts and evidence.

This third choice does not assert that the Murrah Building was deliberately blown up as an act sanctioned by U.S. government policies or even by a few renegade officials. But this third choice also does not absolve government officials of unethical and criminal misconduct, negligence, and liability.

Here is the third choice that the evidence described in this book shows really happened:

The OKC bombing was a failed federal sting operation that was, and still is, being covered up by federal officials and bureaucrats. Officials had prior warnings from domestic and Islamic terror groups and foreign governments including West Germany and Israel. But the officials also had their own prior warnings because of intelligence they had gathered from informants and provocateurs that U.S. government agencies had planted within the groups responsible for carrying out the OKC bombing.

The government officials and agents involved are criminally and civilly liable because they did not have adequate fail-safes built in to warn the public or preempt the OKC bombing if things got out of control. Since they used provocateurs, they had a moral and legal responsibility to set up and use these fail-safes but they did not. Furthermore, some of these officials and agents criminally obstructed justice and perjured themselves in court and criminally withheld evidence to maintain a cover up and protect themselves from civil and criminal liability for their negligence.

Many of the victims, survivors and their family members are overwhelmed by their loss and their financial burdens. But like the public, the victims and survivors are also overwhelmed by the complexities and voluminous information about the case. All are overwhelmed and divided over whether to accept the notion that some of their trusted elected officials knew in advance, failed to protect them, and then covered up.

This book describes evidence that black and white anti-Semitic domestic terrorists collaborated with anti-Semite Islamic terrorists and a German foreign national, Andreas Strassmeyer, to help McVeigh and Nichols bomb the Murrah Building. Some of these Islamic terrorists were foreign based and supported by Islamic governments and terror groups including but not limited to Iraq. Some of these Islamic terrorists are black and white U.S. citizens and can be considered domestic terrorists with foreign sponsorship. This book will describe evidence demonstrating that the FBI and CIA had informants and provocateurs in the collaborating domestic and foreign groups, both Islamic and non-Islamic. One thing united these diverse and normally incompatible groups, their hatred of mutually shared enemies, Israel and the U.S. government. For them, “the enemy of my enemy was their friend.”

Evidence shows that the Islamic terrorists involved in the OKC bombing were under the umbrella of the Muslim Brotherhood supported by Iraq, Iran, Pakistan and Syria and belonging to Hamas, Al-Qaeda, Islamic Jihad, AlFuja, AlFatah and the Palestinian Liberation Army (PLA). Some of the Islamic terrorists involved in the OKC bombing were also involved in the 1993 WTC bombing and 9/11 attacks, are still operating in the OKC area, and have developed an underground railroad infrastructure capable of carrying out another attack in the U.S.

This book is an historical account of an unresolved murder case, the OKC bombing. The case has mainly been solved but not resolved because those now known to have been involved have not yet been brought to justice. Until they are brought to justice, witnesses and victim survivors who saw many of those others involved are at risk from further attack and retaliation. The investigations and prosecutions should move forward also because the statute of limitations on a murder case like the OKC bombing never expires.
This book has also been written to make the public aware that adults and children are still not safe from being murdered by some of the very same Islamic terror individuals and groups still walking America’s streets that were behind the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombings and even 9/11. Government officials are aware of the details of these terror individuals and groups and their involvement in all these attacks but have chosen not to move against them even though the terror individuals are also running criminal business enterprises in the U.S.

This book describes how the OKC bombing investigation was hampered from the very beginning and is to this day by some U.S. government officials who are sympathetic to Muslim agendas (especially a U.S. brokered creation of a Palestinian state in Israel), receive large campaign contributions from Muslims, and support known terrorist Islamic front organizations and leaders in the U.S. including but not limited to the Palavi Foundation and Safa Foods (Iranian/Hezbollah fronts), the American Muslim Council (AMC), the Council for American Islamic Relations (CAIR), the Saudi Wahhabbist backed North American Islamic Trust (NAIT) and some of their leaders including Alamoudi and William Safuri (AMC), Sami AlArian (Hamas) and Mujeeb Cheema (NAIT).

These American officials and their friends not only are not moving against known Islamic terrorist organizations in the U.S., they are intentionally not enforcing the law against these organizations even though the officials know these same organizations engage in tax evasion, drug trafficking, property and automobile scams, etc.

These officials include but are not limited to Congressman Rohrabacher, Presidents Clinton and GW Bush, Grover Norquist (a Muslim advisor to Bush), FBI Directors Robert Mueller and Louis Freeh, U.S. Attorney Generals Janet Reno, John Ashcroft and Alberto Gonzales, Secretary of State Condaleezza Rice, Director of National Intelligence John Negroponte (now up for confirmation as Deputy Secretary of State), Michael Chertoff, Director of Department of Homeland Security (DHS), and Muslim DHS agent Dan Hill.

The public should realize after reading this book that they cannot fully and solely rely on these elected and bureaucratic officials (who are very pro Muslim) to protect them from more criminal actions and terror attacks by Islamic terrorists operating in the U.S. Once the public believes this fact and understands that their very survival is urgently at stake, then the public can and will likely do more to protect itself. If and when this realization sinks in, the public will be less likely to be as easily taken unawares by terrorists.
This book is based on almost twelve years, 24/7, of my personal research and investigation. I have talked to many leading investigative journalists, producers and authors on radio, television, the internet and in the print media. I have worked with prominent attorneys involved in the case. I have talked to Congressmen and Senators, their staffs and their legal counsels. I have talked to many bombing victim survivors and family members. I have talked to many in state and federal law enforcement and the military. I have talked to many eyewitnesses in Oklahoma, Missouri, and Kansas.

I wrote a report specifically for the 9/11 Commission at the request of House Speaker Dennis Hastert and his Chief of staff John B. Russell. The report was about the connections between and the failed policies leading to the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombings and the 9/11 attacks.

The report was entitled “Counter Terrorism Antecedents for the 9/11 Attacks.” I briefed the 9/11 Commission legal counsel John Roth about my report. I wrote a recommendation that Hastert asked me to make to the Commission via Roth, namely that the policy of allowing KNOWN Islamic terrorists to remain on the streets to track them for too long be stopped especially when they are also known to be conducting criminal business enterprises. This policy is still being followed today by the FBI and Department of Homeland Security to the detriment of the American public safety. The 9/11 Commission and John Roth ignored and sandbagged Speaker Hastert. The Commission left mention of the recommendation and my report out of the 9/11 Commission report.
UNSCRUPULOUS FEDERAL TACTICS USED AGAINST THE PUBLIC AND VICTIMS

In the immediate aftermath of the OKC bombing, the Clinton administration shamelessly used the tragedy to blame and smear members of what Hillary Clinton arrogantly called the “Vast Right Wing Conspiracy”, a group Hillary claimed was comprised of Christians, conservative talk radio hosts and militia members.

Despite attempts to smear innocent people by the Clintons, other elected officials and government bureaucrats and some in the mainstream press publicly ridiculed and avoided solid evidence that others, real terrorists, were involved.

To deflect criticism that federal and Oklahoma state investigations were seriously flawed and inferior, these officials and bureaucrats used the underhanded tactic of accusing those asking valid but unanswered questions as engaging in “conspiracy theories.” Many who believed others were involved did not believe the government conspired to blow up their own building. But some in the public believed that if there was a government conspiracy, it was a conspiracy after the bombing to cover up government failures.

Government officials also unfairly tried to marginalize those people asking valid questions and presenting solid evidence contrary to the government’s position. Government officials publicly but falsely described legitimate truth seekers as being anti FBI, anti government or fringe “wackos”, etc. This tactic was a smear of and an insult to those conservative, mainstream, law abiding citizens asking the questions and presenting the evidence because they wanted a better government and a better FBI and DOJ to protect them from future attacks.

Elected and bureaucratic officials dismissed out of hand the strong evidence that there were serious prior warnings of the OKC bombing known to and heeded by federal and Oklahoma state government officials but without adequate attempts made to forewarn the public visiting the Murrah Building and to try to preempt the OKC bombing.

Government officials tried to escape accountability by falsely claiming the prior warnings they received were just the “average, run of the mill” bomb scares that are called in from time to time again federal installations.

In fact the warnings were much more serious and Federal and state officials used the warnings to protect their “own” with measures much more proactive than the measures taken when “average bomb scares” are called in.

Amazingly, some government officials unfairly attempted to pit the public against itself and witnesses and investigators by preposterously claiming there were only two choices to believe: “You either believe the government’s version of events or you believe that the government blew up its own federal building in OKC.” This was an unfair and dishonest tactic because it was designed to protect these officials from accountability. It was a tactic used to divert the public from fact that there is a third choice: The OKC bombing was a failed federal sting operation that was, and still is, being covered up by federal officials and bureaucrats.

When further pressed some officials continued the deception by saying, “we probably can never know”, despite the fact that they were aware of very important evidence that says otherwise.

Some government officials and some in the mainstream press said the facts and evidence showing others being involved and of prior warnings should be examined only if those presenting the evidence can prove or demonstrate “why” and precisely “how” this happened and “why” the government would engage in a cover up of such facts. This “why and how tactic” was an unfair burden designed to once again deflect criticism and protect government officials from accountability. When presented with overwhelming facts and evidence, the burden to explain “why and how” should be placed on government officials, not on the public, witnesses or even investigators. There are likely many reasons “why” and if anyone in the public should guess incorrectly on even one of these reasons, those in government who are trying to avoid accountability will use an incorrect guess as an excuse not to address the facts and evidence. The “why”, the motive of a crime, is not required to prove and obtain a conviction for a crime. Even the convicted perpetrator cannot always explain all the “whys” for his actions.

Victims and their family members as well as journalists were divided and pitted against each other over who was involved. There are four camps or points of view about who was involved. First, there are those who believe that no one else besides McVeigh and Nichols was involved. Some look at only the evidence of domestic groups like white supremacists, militias, Midwest bank robbers, and possible FBI informants and provocateurs involved in these groups. Others look only at foreign involvement of Muslim groups, individuals and governments like Iraq.

Those who look at the evidence showing collaboration of both foreign, Islamic and domestic entities and individuals in the OKC bombing do not enjoy the support of those looking solely at domestic or foreign involvement alone. This fourth point of view includes not only foreign Islamic terrorists, but also the German national Andreas Strassmeyer as well as drug traffickers from South America and Muslim terrorists who are U.S. citizens and are hence “domestic” terrorists.

Many of the victims and their family members are overwhelmed by their loss, their financial burdens, and the complexities and voluminous information about the case. But they are also overwhelmed and divided over whether to accept the notion that some of their trusted elected officials knew in advance, failed to protect them, and then covered up.

Many of the OKC bombing victims were federal employees who are not eligible to press lawsuits against the federal government officials over legal liability.

OKC attorney Mike Johnston brought a federal lawsuit in DC federal court against Iraq on behalf of bombing victims and their family members. Federal Judge Reggie Walton, the same judge who upheld a “state secrets gag order” against 9/11 whistleblower Sibel Edmonds, has and still is using delaying tactics in the lawsuit brought by Johnston against Iraq. President GW Bush also hampered the Johnston lawsuit by issuing an executive order impounding all funds that could be recovered from Iraq in successful lawsuits. Bush said he wanted to use the funds exclusively for Iraqi reconstruction. Bush blocked funds that had already been awarded to American victims from the first Gulf war with Iraq.

Another example of a clever tactic by federal officials to cover-up the OKC bombing was the intentionally deficient investigation and recent report on the OKC bombing by California Congressman Dana Rohrabacher. The report was issued the day after Christmas 2006 during the worst possible news cycle. Rohrabacher’s report was a whitewash and a limited hang out to deceive the public and reduce the exposure of culpable officials to accountability and liability claims. In fact the evidence in this book indicates Rohrabacher himself was one of many officials, both Democratic and Republican, who had detailed prior warnings and prior knowledge of the Murrah Building bombing and the 9/11 style attack plot.

The OKC bombing investigation was hampered from the very beginning and is to this day by some U.S. government officials who are sympathetic to Muslim agendas (especially a U.S. brokered creation of a Palestinian state in Israel), receive large campaign contributions from Muslims, and support known terrorist Islamic front organizations and leaders in the U.S. including but not limited to the Palavi Foundation and Safa Foods (Iranian/Hezbollah fronts), the American Muslim Council (AMC), the Council for American Islamic Relations (CAIR), the Saudi Wahhabist backed North American Islamic Trust (NAIT) and some of their leaders including Alamoudi and William Safuri (AMC), Sami AlArian (Hamas) and Mujeeb Cheema (NAIT).

These American officials and their friends not only are not moving against known Islamic terrorist organizations in the U.S., they are intentionally not enforcing the law against these organizations even though the officials know these same organizations engage in tax evasion, drug trafficking, property and automobile scams, etc.

These officials include but are not limited to Congressman Rohrabacher, Presidents Clinton and GW Bush, Grover Norquist (a Muslim advisor to Bush), FBI Directors Robert Mueller and Louis Freeh, U.S. Attorney Generals Janet Reno, John Ashcroft and Alberto Gonzales, Secretary of State Condoleeza Rice, Director of National Intelligence John Negroponte (now up for confirmation as Deputy Secretary of State), Michael Chertoff, Director of Department of Homeland Security (DHS), and Muslim DHS agent Dan Hill.

This book deals throughout its chapters with many of the intentional cover-up deficiencies by Rohrabacher and especially in the chapter THE “REASONS” WHY ROHRABACHER MADE HIS OKC BOMBING INVESTIGATION AND REPORT DEFICIENT
Other federal tactics to block accountability and avoid liability in the OKC bombing case are presented in the chapters FALSE ASSERTIONS OF NATIONAL SECURITY, FBI AND JUSTICE DEPARTMENT PROTECT THEIR PROVOCATEURS, AVOIDING CIVIL AND CRIMINAL LIABILITY FOR PROVOCATION, FOREKNOWLEDGE AND NEGLIGENCE, THE CLINTON, FBI, AND DOJ “FIX” : MICHAEL FORTIER’S PROFFER AGREEMENT.

OKC BOMBING EXPLOSIVES

The Rohrabacher report on the Oklahoma City (OKC) bombing released after Christmas, 2006, presented evidence that the convicted OKC bombing participant, Terry Nichols, was in Cebu City, Philippines in 1994 at the same time as Ramzi Yousef, the convicted mastermind of the 1993 WTC bombing. The report also indicated that a relative of Nichols' Philippine wife, Marife, may have put Nichols in contact with Yousef for a meeting with a Abu Sayef terror cell to plan the OKC bombing using a book on explosives powders that Nichols carried to the Philippines. Nichols' Philippine father-in-law, Eduardo Torres, had seen the book on how to build bombs taken by Nichols in his luggage to the Philippines.

See Rohrabacher's OKC Bombing Report

The Rorabacher report did not mention the fact that Ramzi Yousef used a book on explosive powders with the same title as the book Nichols took to the Philippines, The Chemistry of Powders and Explosives. Yousef's use of the book was presented in his trial for the 1993 WTC bombing.

Federal informant Cary Gagan was given DOJ immunity for Gagan's allegations that South American drug lords worked with Islamic terrorists in employing Gagan to deliver explosive powders in bottles and a mixer to Junction City, Kansas for the OKC bombing. The book on powders and explosives that Ramzi Yousef and Terry Nichols both used in the Philippines made mention of explosive powders possibly similar to what Gagan delivered in bottles to Kansas for the OKC bombing. The Islamic terrorists Gagan spoke of included terrorists tied to the 1993 WTC bombers, Ramzi Yousef and the Abu Sayef terrorists in the Philippines. For more on Cary Gagan, see the chapter IT STARTED WITH THE 1993 WTC BOMBING.

Former Clinton national Security Council and terrorism official Richard Clarke speculates in his book, Against All Enemies that Nichols was taught bomb making by Iraqi and AlQaeda operatives Ramzi Yousef and Khalid Mohammed while they were in the Philippines with Abu Sayef.

Rohrabacher's report used the finding of ten 'Kinestik' explosives at Nichols' Kansas home in 2005, ten years after the OKC bombing, as an example of the incompleteness of the FBI investigation. What the report did not reveal is that Rohrabacher's office received the original information about the explosives from Michigan private investigator Stephen Dresch in a fax to Kathleen Hollingsworth in Rohrabacher's California office in March 2005, BEFORE the FBI retrieved the explosives. Rohrabacher knows but did not reveal in his report many other extremely important and incriminating facts about Roger Moore, the FBI and CIA and the "Kinestik"explosives including:

Dan Hill of Homeland Security betrayed the effort to have the explosives retrieved for independent confirmation that gun dealer Roger Moore's fingerprints were on them. In fact Hill threatened one of Dresch's collaborating investigators, Angela Clemente, during the effort.

Roger Moore provided the 'Kinestik' explosives to McVeigh and Nichols and Midwest Banker robber Shawn Kenny as claimed by both Nichols and McVeigh to their attorneys in 1995-1996.

Roger Moore worked for the FBI and CIA according to sworn testimony at Nichols' federal trial by two Arkansas reporters who knew and investigated Moore.

Roger Moore encouraged McVeigh to attack federal buildings and the 'New World Order' based on letters presented as evidence at the Nichols' federal trial.

Roger Moore recanted his testimony at the Nichols' federal trial in a letter to U.S. prosecutors after the trial.
ROHRABACHER DECREES FBI, CIA, DOJ CONDUCT

The Rohrabacher report 'Conclusions' chapter contained this statement:

"Justice Department officials (and perhaps, the CIA) were less than responsive to crucial stages of this investigation, exemplifying needless defensiveness."

In his public interviews Rohrabacher has stated the public and bombing victims would be "outraged" at the amount of obstruction and deliberate lack of cooperation into his investigation by federal agencies including the FBI, CIA, and Justice Department.
ORCHESTRATION OF A COVER UP

Rohrabacher also knows, but did not include in his OKC bombing report, that there are serious allegations the DOJ and FBI were ordered within a few weeks of the bombing to drop the investigation into others involved in the OKC bombing. Rohrabacher knows this at least two different ways. According to Jayna Davis and her attorney Dan Nelson, the Chief of Staff, Herb Johnson, for Oklahoma’s U.S. Senator James Inhofe wrote a letter in September 1998 describing his being told by a senior FBI agent friend at the FBI’s OKC bomb command center that the FBI had been ordered to drop investigating Middle Eastern involvement in the OKC bombing.

Investigators JD Cash and Lt Colonel Roger Charles presented Rohrabacher with their article and interviews of DOJ officials that claimed the DOJ was ordered to drop investigating others involved in the OKC bombing. From the Cash and Charles article a former DOJ officials claim OKC Bombing coverup began in D.C.:

“I was close to the bombing case immediately,” one former official told the Gazette, “and over time it became clear the White House had taken the investigation away from the FBI and handed it over to officials at the Department of Justice.

“And that's not how it works. The FBI should investigate and then turn the evidence over to them to decide if they want to proceed with a prosecution. That didn't happen in this case. In this case, after the original commanders left the case, the DOJ began calling the shots in telling field agents what they could investigate and what they couldn't.”

This abrupt cessation of FBI investigation into the others involved in the OKC bombing was signaled by the following event I learned of by June 1995 from Brad Edwards, the senior investigating reporter at OKC’s KFOR TV at the time of the OKC bombing:

Within weeks of the OKC bombing Clinton convened an NSC meeting. An attendee of the meeting has said that after Clinton left the meeting, officials of the NSC, DOJ, FBI, CIA, and BATF remained behind and engaged in heated arguments as to who was to blame for failures that would require extensive damage control and a cover up. The attendee told this story to his friend Brad Edwards.

“According to some of our friends in media, the government’s lawyers [U.S. prosecutors] were at each others throats ….Meanwhile, some FBI agents had had enough of being jerked around by the prosecutors….and were openly showing their disdain, and ATF people were just as openly enraged with the FBI, saying its theory of the case was all wrong. Finally, each of the leading government lawyers had begun leaking stories to favored media sources---stories that pointed the fingers at the others.”

The Jones’ description of the prosecution team and the interactions with the FBI and ATF may have well been an accurate assessment of the behavior of U.S. prosecutors and FBI agents working for them. Jones gives numerous examples of questionable conduct by the U.S. prosecutors throughout his book. Jones’ writings have now been bolstered by recently reported information about the woman who was in charge of the U.S. prosecutors for the OKC bombing case.

Donna Bucella headed the executive office in charge of all 94 U.S. Attorneys including the U.S. prosecutors who handled the OKC bombing case. In fact Bucella was sent by Attorney General Janet Reno and the DOJ to OKC the day after the Murrah Building was bombed to “initiate the nationwide investigation” that was conducted by U.S. Attorneys and the FBI. Bucella had been an associate of Janet Reno from the Southern District of Florida. In 1993 Bucella went to work at DOJ for Reno and was responsible for the training of U.S. Attorneys and how they are to conduct federal grand juries.

U.S. Attorney Donna Bucella announced her resignation under fire from the 11th U.S. Circuit of Appeals on Friday, March 23, 2001, according to an article in the Naples Daily News “Central Florida’s top prosecutor quits under fire” on March 24, 2001. The article was written by Pat Leisner of the Associated Press. On March 16, 2001, the 11th Circuit Court cited prosecutorial misconduct by U.S. prosecuting attorneys under Bucella and overturned a conviction won earlier by the prosecuting attorneys. The court criticized Bucella’s Assistant U.S. Attorney Rubinstein “for reportedly lying to a grand jury, rushing the panel and pressuring it to ‘rubber stamp’ indictments.” In another case, the Naples Daily article reported that the court also called into question the behavior of prosecutors under Bucella for their backing an investigation the court said had been built “by lying, distortion and omitting facts.”

The findings and criticism against the U.S. Attorneys in Bucella’s Florida office by the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals are remarkably similar to allegations that have been made against U.S. Attorneys (prosecutors) handling the OKC bombing case for Bucella. And the findings against detectives in the Florida cases under Bucella are also very similar to allegations that have been made against FBI investigators working for the U.S. Attorneys in the OKC case.

Was the Federal grand jury convened for the OKC bombing conducted in an illegal and improper way that resulted in “lying to a grand jury, rushing the panel and pressuring it to ‘rubber stamp’ indictments” as the 11th Circuit says was done by other U.S. Attorneys also under Donna Bucella in Florida cases?

Federal Grand Juror Hoppi Heidelberg believed the answer is “yes”. Heidelberg complained of illegal conduct of U.S. Attorneys during the federal grand jury proceedings in OKC and was removed because of his complaints. Heidelberg claimed that he was not permitted to have the witnesses called he felt were important and that he was not properly permitted by the U.S. Attorney prosecutors to ask questions of witnesses.

The day Heidelberg was removed, the lead U.S. Attorney prosecutor Joseph Hartzler called Heidelberg and told him not to talk at all to a KFORTV reporter on the way to his house that had just spoken to Heidelberg on the phone a very few minutes earlier. There is evidence that suggests that FBI agents made false representations to a Federal judge to cause the judge to order Heidelberg’s removal from the grand jury. The FBI and U.S. prosecutor wanted Heidelberg removed because of his complaints that the grand jury was being conducted improperly under Donna Bucella’s directions. OKC FBI agent Jon Hersely went to Heidelberg’s home and confiscated Heidelberg’s notes while Hersely’s gun was prominently displayed in his belt.

Drug dealer James Rosencrans testified twice before the federal grand jury in OKC in June and July 1995 as a star prosecution witness concerning his allegations that he had provided methamphetamines (meth) to McVeigh and McVeigh’s neighbor Michael Fortier in Kingman, Arizona. Rosencrans was given red carpet treatment by the FBI and the U.S. prosecutors as they had Rosencrans flown in (with his mother and girlfriend) to testify before the federal grand jury. This account was reported in the Daily Oklahoman newspaper in OKC. But also Rosencrans was permitted by the DOJ and FBI to keep the proceeds of his pawn shop sales of guns stolen from gun dealer Roger Moore as payment for the drugs he testified he had provided McVeigh and Fortier.

It is not likely that prosecutors ever told grand jurors (just as the jurors in the federal and state trials were not told) that a large amount of ammonium nitrate was found dumped in Rosencrans’ back yard as reported by the Arizona Republic newspaper. They likely were not told that Rosencrans was with two other FBI provocateurs, Shawn Kenny and Black Muslim Melvin Lattimore (Mujahid Menepta), and McVeigh’s car at the Travelers Aid next to the Murrah Building on April 18, 1995. And, of course, they likely were not told of Rosencrans’ acceptance of Moore’s guns as payment for the meth sold or given to McVeigh and Fortier.

In open court the FBI and prosecutors appeared to have perjured themselves repeatedly by falsely telling the court and jurors that these stolen guns had financed the OKC bombing, when in fact the FBI and prosecutors knew all along that the proceeds from Midwest bank robberies carried out with Richard Guthrie, McVeigh and with the direct help of FBI informant Shawn Kenny (in the Army at the time!) had been used to finance the bombing.

FBI Deputy Director Danny Coulson writes in his book, No Heroes, that Coulson encountered Rosencrans in late April 1995 brandishing a rifle when Coulson had arrived at Fortier’s residence in Kingman to deliver to Fortier, a proffer or a plea bargain agreement. Rosencrans was not detained or shot by FBI agents for brandishing his rifle at the FBI during Coulson’s visit. Instead, U.S. prosecutors used Rosencrans as their star witness before the federal grand jury in OKC in the summer of 1995. See the chapter THE CLINTON, FBI, AND DOJ “FIX” : MICHAEL FORTIER’S PROFFER AGREEMENT.

In the summer of 2001, the chief witness at the Travelers Aid, Gloria Smith wrote Attorney General John Ashcroft and the Inspector General of the DOJ, Glen Fine, about the 1995 Travelers Aid incident with Mujahid Menepta, Shawn Kenny and Rosencrans. As the Director of Travelers Aid, Smith had 20 years of experience of working with FBI agents in the past. Smith’s information was also presented to Ashcroft in his personal Virginia residence by Air Force General Benton K. Partin in August 2001 and if acted upon may have averted 9/11. Smith complained that 6 different FBI agents came to the Travelers Aid over 6 months after the OKC bombing, took few notes, wrote no reports, had no sketches made, and harshly browbeat and intimidated four witnesses who had seen the men with McVeigh’s car at Travelers Aid. To this day, the FBI and DOJ have done nothing about this incident that was reported on local OKC radio station, KTOK and local television station KOCOTV.

For more on the story about Menepta, Kenny, Rosencrans being at the Travelers Aid, see the chapter FBI AND JUSTICE DEPARTMENT PROTECT THEIR PROVOCATEURS.

Jones writes on page 190 of his book that another U.S. prosecutor, Larry Mackey, admitted deliberately lying to Jones and claiming that others in the prosecution team had made Mackey lie to Jones. It is suspected that Bucella could have had a hand in Mackey’s lying to Jones. Jones also writes on page 128 of his book that he believes Mackey went to the Philippines and deliberately blocked Jones efforts to obtain information about Nichols’ involvement with terrorists groups. Jones’ story about this was confirmed to me by the former Pentagon terrorism advisor, Jesse Clear, who assisted Jones at one time and had been working with Philippine contacts for Jones.

Jones strongly complained about U.S. prosecutor Beth Wilkinson on KTOK radio in November 1998 for withholding evidence from Jones about German national Andres Strassmeir’s involvement with McVeigh, the FBI and FBI director Louis Freeh.

Wilkinson visited General Benton Partin in June 1996 with the FBI’s OKC Bomb Task Force inspector Danny Defenbaugh to discuss Partin’s analysis of the cause of damage to the Murrah Building. During the interview with Wilkinson, which was taped by Partin, Defenbaugh pointed to the location of what had been publicly shown as the truck bomb crater and said words to the effect: “Suppose I were to tell you that is not the location of the crater.” Wilkinson tried to belittle and disparage Partin’s credentials during the interview- actions which were extremely insulting and suggested intimidation and federal cover-up to discourage Partin should he have been called as a witness at the McVeigh or Nichols trials.

Another U.S. Attorney on the prosecution team was Patrick Ryan. I believe Ryan was in a position to mislead, intimidate, or suppress a number of material witnesses in the case including former day care center director Danielle Hunt as well as a member of the OKC police K9 unit, Don Browning. Ryan fell out of a tree and broke his hip so he was assigned by the prosecution team to handle the victims who had also been witnesses during his hip recovery.

Browning has told me that Ryan interviewed him twice in OKC and told Browning he was not interested in much of the information that Browning knew including police dispatch instructions to Browning at 10:30 am on April 19, 1995 to go after two Iranians in blue jogging suits believed to have helped McVeigh do the OKC bombing. Ryan also did nothing when Browning told Ryan about the discovery of remnants of explosive devices Browning found in the Murrah building during search and rescue efforts.

Danielle Hunt told me that she believed Ryan dropped her from being a witness at the McVeigh trial when she started pointing out that 3-4 FBI agents normally dropped off children at the day care center and were in the Murrah Building by 9 am sharp on almost every day except the day of the bombing. Hunt was visited by McVeigh in December 1994 at the day care center and asked detailed question about security, fire escapes, elevators, etc.

I witnessed Ryan giving false statements to reporters at an Oklahoma Geophysical Society meeting in November 1995 about the Ryder truck bomb. Ryan told reporters that Dr. Ray Brown and Tom Holzer had concluded that only a truck bomb was recorded on a seismograph at the time of the explosion. Ryan made his false statement before the meeting had even started and later repeated his claim after the meeting when, in fact, Dr. Brown had stated in the meeting that demolition charges could have been used, and that he believed there were two strong explosions, with the second stronger than the first. I was at the meeting and Ryan tried to slander me there by angrily and very loudly and publicly accusing me of working for the defense team when I had asked Dr. Brown some questions designed to understand his analysis. I never worked for the defense team.

Witnesses, bombing survivors and Murrah employee Ruth Schwab saw suspicious men in the Murrah parking garage with blueprints before the bombing. The men are suspected of trying to plant explosives in Murrah. One of these men wore cowboy boots like a suspected FBI provocateur Gary Hunt. Witness Dolores Watson spoke with McVeigh in the Murrah parking garage around April 10, 1995, and at the time McVeigh was with another man who meets the description of the Iraqi suspect Al Hussain Hussaini. Both Schwab and Watson told U.S. prosecutors of their accounts but the prosecutors did nothing. For more on their story and Hunt see the chapter GARY D. HUNT KNEW A PLOT AND SOME PLAYERS.

For the OKC bombing trials, serious allegations have been made that U.S. prosecutors and the FBI agents working with them were guilty of “lying, distortion and omitting facts.” Nichols’ defense attorney Michael Tigar made strong assertions of deliberate hiding, distortion and omitting trial evidence of FBI 302 interview reports by FBI agents conspiring with U.S. prosecutors. Tigar’s allegations were made at an appeals hearing with Federal Judge Matsch on July 7, 1999. It was alleged that many of the accounts of John Does with McVeigh, given by witnesses to the FBI, were never adequately made available to the court at the trials by the U.S. prosecutors or the FBI. In fact, they had been suppressed.

Jones and Tigar strongly complained about the U.S. prosecutors and FBI agents working for them by accusing them of deliberately misspelling many names of key witnesses and suspects in indices and on important government documents during the exploratory phase of the case. The misspellings were done in contrived ways that Jones and Tigar claimed kept important names and information from being retrieved from FBI databases by investigators. Stephen Jones provided many good examples in his book, Others Unknown, where the FBI deliberately rewrote 302 interview reports to try to recreate history not to correct the reports but rather to remove or hide or confuse evidence that weakened the government’s case that the original 302s showed.

By comparing the lead sheets he was given, Tigar further demonstrated that some 302’s had not been generated that should have been, that some 302s that had been generated had never been given to him, and that some 302s were so inconsistent with the lead sheets that it appeared some of the 302s could have been falsified. Many of these 302s pertained to John Does in the case.

Tiger presented evidence that Danny Defenbaugh’s FBI agents under supervisor Mark White had deliberately not created FBI 302 reports from thousands of lead sheets created with key witnesses, nor turned many of these lead sheets over to the defense attorneys, nor put these lead sheets in FBI databases. The Travelers Aid story presented below is an example of this type of FBI misconduct where FBI 302 reports were intentionally not created even though several agents interviewed key witnesses at the Travelers Aid.

Judge Matsch ruled that the Tigar arguments about the lead sheets and FBI 302 reports would not have changed the outcome of the case. Judge Matsch castigated the FBI agents but took no measures against the agents, U.S. prosecutors and the DOJ officials that were involved in the withholding and the manipulation of the leads sheets and 302 reports. It will be shown later in this chapter that Judge Matsch knowingly failed to enforce the “Brady Rules”, the legal requirements imposed on the government to provide important documents and information to the defense.

Tigar publicly complained on KOCOTV in OKC and before the U.S. Supreme Court that he still has not received all the FBI lead sheets and 302 interview reports he has asked for and is entitled to in the case.

U.S. prosecutor Patrick Ryan came forward in May 2001 to say that he would have conducted himself differently at the trials had he known about withheld FBI lead sheets that supported the testimony of defense witness Morris John Kuper. Kuper testified that he saw McVeigh with a heavy-set Middle Eastern man around 8 am on April 19, 1995 walking with McVeigh in front of a surveillance camera at the OKC downtown Public Library. The tape from the camera was confiscated and has never been made available by the courts. Ryan’s admission came within a New York Times article by Jo Thomas dated May 26, 2001 entitled “Document Erases Doubts About a McVeigh Witness.”

Tigar implicated FBI document supervisor Mark White in mishandling the FBI 302 interview reports and lead sheets.

Mark White was a supervisor for FBI agent Carlisle. Carlisle generated hundreds of 302s in the OKC case and is strongly believed to have falsified his interview report with deputy sheriff Dave Kochendoerfer over government foreknowledge of an Islamic terrorist assisted attack on the Murrah Building. Over Kochendorfer’s protests, Carlisle told Kochendoerfer that Carlisle was going to write his FBI 320 report on his interview as saying Kochendorfer was only repeating “scuttlebutt”.

Kochendorfer vigorously told Carlisle that he was not relying on “scuttlebutt”.

Kochendorfer testified under oath at the OK County grand jury investigating the OKC bombing that Congressmen Ernest Istook of Oklahoma told two deputy sheriffs, Don Hammonds and Dave Kochenforfer, on the night of the OKC bombing that he and the FBI had received warning a week before the bombing from a local Islamic terror group (Hamas) of a threat of an attack on the Murrah Building.

The other man implicated by the mishandling of FBI leads and documents is the U.S. prosecutor Sean Connelly who had refused to receive much of the evidence from a former KFORTV reporter on the possible Middle Eastern connection. And Connelly is the man who later prepared a May 24, 2001 report that downplayed what happened to the “missing” FBI documents and misinformed Attorney General Ashcroft.

In 2001, the FBI announced it had discovered over 4000 pages of FBI interviews concerning John Does. McVeigh’s execution was delayed by Attorney General John Ashcroft to examine whether or not the “discovered” evidence should lead to a retrial.

In a May 24, 2001 news conference, Attorney General John Ashcroft made the following statements:

“Today, the Department of Justice completed a report that has been submitted to me, documenting the FBI's comprehensive efforts over the last 13 days to identify any remaining documents. The report explains the content and the nature of newly produced documents and outlines the efforts the department has made to allow McVeigh's attorneys a fair opportunity to review this material."

“Let me summarize this report's findings. No document creates any doubt of McVeigh's guilt, let alone establishes his innocence, which is the legal standard an appeal must overcome. Most of the documents could not have qualified as evidence. Finally, the quantity of the documents is minuscule compared to the number of documents already provided to McVeigh's lawyers."

The report that Ashcroft referred to is entitled, “Report to the U.S. AG Regarding Post-Trial Production of FBI Documents,” and is dated May 24, 2001. The report was prepared under the direction of Sean Connelly, who is identified on the report as the “Special Attorney to the Attorney General” along with the names of other U.S. Attorneys such as Joseph Hartzler. As noted earlier in this chapter, Connelly and Hartzler were U.S. prosecutors at the McVeigh and Nichols trials.

It is apparent that Ashcroft was wrongly relying too much on the very same U.S. Attorneys that along with the FBI engaged in criminal obstruction of justice that included withholding and falsification of evidence from the court and trials and even threatening of John Doe witnesses. As noted above, the author of Ashcroft’s report, Sean Connelly is the man who refused for several years to accept from former KFOR TV reporter Jayna Davis the evidence and 21 sworn affidavits of witnesses who saw McVeigh with Middle Eastern John Does, including the Iraqi suspect Al Hussaini.

A few days before his news conference an attempt had been made to offer Ashcroft evidence gathered by Jayna Davis. The offer was rejected even though the offer was alleged to have come through David Schippers, a former U.S. Attorney, a Washington DC heavy hitter and the former legal counsel to the House Managers for the Impeachment proceedings against President Clinton. Davis mentioned her hopes to spark a DOJ investigation with the help of “a well-known former federal prosecutor” in an interview with WorldNetDaily.com’s Paul Sperry on May 25, 2001 entitled “Bin-Laden-McVeigh Link”.

On the Fox News O’Reilly Factor for May 14, 2001, Bill O’Reilly stated that the FBI had told him they had refused to accept evidence of Middle Eastern John Does from former KFOR TV reporter Jayna Davis because the evidence would have gone to the defense and that is not what the FBI wanted, namely the FBI would have had to create 302 reports which the FBI did not want the defense attorneys to receive.

The FBI claimed they could not authenticate the KFOR TV evidence, but that would have been hard for them to do since they did not receive it in the first place until February 1999. But U.S. Attorney and prosecutor Sean Connelly had also refused to receive the evidence from Jayna Davis attorney Tim McCoy by telling McCoy the prosecution did not want to complicate the case and help the defense. The Connelly refusal was revealed at a March Oklahoma state pretrial hearing for Nichols in OKC.

FBI agent Dan Vogel finally met with and received evidence from Jayna Davis and her attorney Dan Nelson in OKC in February 1999. At the request of Jayna Davis I contacted William C. Dunke of the Senate Intelligence Committee and told him the FBI and U.S. prosecutors had refused to accept the Davis evidence of 21 sworn affidavits both before and during the trials. Dunke told me to tell Davis that she should tell the FBI that Dunke would contact the FBI if they did not accept Davis’ affidavits. This led to the meeting between Davis, Vogel and Nelson in late January 1999. Transfer of most her evidence to Vogel and the FBI was finalized by March 1999. Vogel claims that he passed Davis’ affidavits on to the FBI.

Now retired, OKC FBI agents Dan Vogel, Rich Ojeda and Jim Volz told CBS "60 Minutes-II " on May 29, 2001 that there were serious problems of FBI collected evidence not being turned over to attorneys in the OKC bombing case which may amount to what Vogel questions a possible criminal “obstruction of justice”. A summary of their interview can be found at the CBS website under the story “Former Agents Hit FBI On McVeigh”.

According to the NY Times article by Jo Thomas the Nichols defense attorney Michael Tigar said he knew of two instances in which prosecutors like Patrick Ryan tried to impeach the credibility of defense witnesses with assertions that were contradicted by the FBI documents discovered in 2001. One of these witnesses was John Morris Kuper but the other witness was not publicly identified.

Ashcroft and the prosecutors in their report to Ashcroft tried to lead the American people to believe that nothing significant was contained in the FBI documents that were found and belatedly turned over to the defense attorneys for McVeigh and Nichols. But we know that the lead sheet for witness John Kuper was extremely important and would, by U.S. prosecutor Patrick Ryan’s own admission, have affected the prosecutions handling of witness Kuper. And it is likely that the other witness Tigar referred to would also have been treated differently. The jurors also probably could have believed the testimony of the two witnesses had it not been for the withheld FBI documents.

But there is even much more known about the FBI documents that were found to show that Ashcroft and the prosecutors were extremely wrong and deceptive if not dishonest in their assessments. The LA Times reported on May 14, 2001 in an article by Richard Serrano “More McVeigh Files Found” that the FBI documents contained surveillance photos and tapes and information about the FBI’s lead John Doe suspect Robert Jacques who may have been a government informant.

And a May 17, 2001, article entitled “Dallas FBI Files Believed to Detail 2 Arrests” by Jack Douglas of the Ft. Worth Star Telegram revealed that more FBI documents describing the arrest of Arab suspects in the OKC bombing were found in the Dallas FBI office of the former OKC Bomb Inspector Danny Defenbaugh. These Arab suspects were the subject of an OKC police and OK Highway Patrol manhunt and were improperly released in part because of deliberately false information given out by FBI agent Floyd Zimms. FBI 302’s of the arrest and release of three Pakistani men, Anas and Asad Siddiqy and Mohammed Chafti involved in the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombing were found in Defenbaugh’s Dallas office in early 2001. These reports had not been turned over to the defense before or during the federal trials.

Both the FBI and the U.S. Prosecutors illegally suppressed evidence and each knew the other was suppressing the evidence and they were helping each other to do it. An examination of the relationship between the U.S. prosecutors and the FBI described at the Nichols appeals hearing on July 7, 1999, shows that the FBI and U.S. prosecutors deliberately worked together and also separately to illegally suppress evidence at the trials pertaining to John Does with McVeigh, some of whom may have been Federal informants, agents and provocateurs.

In fact two FBI agents working for the U.S. prosecutors in Denver, Zimms and Odom, have been identified as suppressing witnesses and their testimony in the OKC bombing case.

Witness Debbie Burdick was called by FBI agent Odom during the McVeigh trial and told not to talk to defense attorneys or news media even though she was never called to testify at the trial. Burdick saw McVeigh and Middle Eastern males in a brown Chevy truck, McVeigh’s Mercury Marquis and a blue vehicle moments before the bombing. Burdick’s story of being called and suppressed by Odom was reported on KTOK radio in OKC by news director Jerry Bohnen.

A key witness of a Middle Eastern man seen with McVeigh was brow beaten at the OKC FBI office and when he would not change his story, informed journalists close to the case report that Zimms falsified the FBI 302 interview reports with the witness. These FBI 302 reports are used as evidence by U.S. Attorneys in trials. FBI agent Zimms was a key liaison between Federal prosecutors and the FBI in Denver starting in 1996 and throughout 1997. Zimms had previously worked closely with U.S. Attorneys when he had worked for the FBI on mob cases in Chicago in the 1970’s.

If U.S. prosecutors Hartzler, Connelly, Ryan, Mackey and Wilkinson took and knowingly carried out unlawful orders from Donna Bucella and janet Reno to engage in unethical and illegal conduct before and during the grand jury and trials, they cannot plead the Nuremberg defense. The same goes for FBI agents Odom and Zimms who worked closely with the prosecutors. What is extremely troubling about the U.S. Attorneys and prosecutors and FBI agents in this case, is that their alleged conduct could have become legal grounds for getting two convicted bombers off.

There is a landmark case called “United States versus Brady,” which said that if the government has evidence (called “exculpatory” evidence) in its possession that tends to show that the person being prosecuted is innocent, then it violates the due process guarantee in the Constitution for the government to have that evidence, but then to conceal it and not turn it over to the trial court or to the defense team. As a result of the case, “Brady Rules” were set up by the DOJ to comply with the Brady ruling.

Tigar and Jones provided hard evidence to Judge Matsch that the FBI and DOJ intentionally withheld lead sheets and FBI 302 reports that was exculpatory. Judge Matsch did not do anything about the Tigar or Jones complaints and evidence of “Brady Rule” violations. In the OKC bombing case the FBI and DOJ and Judge Matsch jointly conspired to and did intentionally violate the “Brady Rules” by withholding exculpatory evidence from the defense and courts.

In his PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDAMUS on MARCH 25, 1997, Jones appealed to the Tenth Circuit of Appeals in Denver to force the U.S. government to comply with the “Brady Rules” and turn over exculpatory evidence, especially evidence held by the intelligence agencies of the government pertaining to foreknowledge of the OKC bombing. A three-judge panel of the Tenth Circuit denied Jones request for a writ of mandamus on the false assertion of protecting national security. See the chapter FALSE ASSERTIONS OF NATIONAL SECURITY.

In a November 21, 1995 letter to U.S. prosecutor Joseph Hartzler Jones complained that the government's definition of “exculpatory information” under Brady was unduly restrictive.
In a February 15, 1996 letter to U.S. prosecutor Beth A. Wilkinson regarding issues relating to evidence discovery Jones underscored the defense's frustration with the government's production of discovery, particularly Brady and Giglio items and requested yet again specific reports generated by the Central Intelligence Agency, the Criminal Investigation Divisions of the various components of the Department of Defense, the National Security Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, the Bureau of Intelligence and Research of the State Department, the Office for Combatting [sic] Terrorism of the United States Department of State, the National Security Council, the Department of Defense Special Operations Agency, and other domestic and foreign law enforcement agencies.

See D.E. 1923 (Vol.III Exhibit “M”).

In a February 15, 1996 letter to U.S. prosecutor Beth A. Wilkinson, Jones requested Brady material containing information concerning, information about the German Andreas trassmeir and any connections with neo-Nazi or other white premacist organizations. See D.E. 1923 (Vol. III Exhibit “N”).

This is what author and investigator Ambrose Evans-Pritchard wrote about the situation in an article in the October 31, 1997 issue of Human Events, "What Really Happened in the Oklahoma City Bombing?"

“In violation of its “Brady” responsibilities, the prosecution withheld material from the defense that was exculpatory or impeached the credibility of government witnesses.

“It delayed a year in handing over FD-302 witness statements that were critical to the defense. It stonewalled, obstructed, and dragged its feet at every turn. It also told a series of demonstrable lies that will be enumerated in this book”.

“As for the FBI, the proven malfeasance of the crime labs in the handling of scientific evidence from the crime scene makes it clear that the “OKBOMB” investigation was rotten from the foundations up. The report of the Justice Department's Inspector General lists the Oklahoma bombing case as one of the worst examples of de facto evidence tampering by the crime labs. In summing up, the inspector General's report found that the FBI crime labs had “repeatedly reached conclusions that incriminated the defendants without a scientific basis” in the Oklahoma bombing case.”

Robert Mueller was brought to Washington DC in early 2001 to head the transition team for Ashcroft. Mueller proceeded to steer Ashcroft through the cover-ups by FBI and DOJ on the OKC bombing case. Mueller did such a superb job that Ashcroft personally nominated Mueller to President GW Bush for the FBI Director position. Muller’s appointment and confirmation as FBI Director has perpetuated the FBI and DOJ cover-ups of Waco, Ruby Ridge and the OKC bombing.

Mueller was also involved in covering up the Noriega, BCCI and BNL scandals of HW Bush Senior while at the U.S. Justice Department. Mueller worked with U.S. prosecutor Beth Wilkinson on the Noriega case. Mueller also worked closely at several points with Larry Potts, the former Deputy Director of the FBI, who was dismissed from the FBI for lying about the FBI giving the shoot to kill orders at Ruby Ridge that led to Vickie Weaver’s murder.

The head of the OKC FBI office in 2001, Mr. Marquise worked directly with Mueller on the Pan Am 103 bombing and Marquise was given the AG Distinguished Service Award by Ashcroft. Marquise verbally attacked four FBI agents who were on 60 minutes II last month describing the FBI cover-up of evidence in the OKC bombing. Now retired, OKC FBI agents Dan Vogel, Rich Ojeda and Jim Volz told CBS “60 Minutes-II” on May 29, 2001 that there were serious problems of FBI collected evidence not being turned over to attorneys in the OKC bombing case which may have amounted to what Vogel called a possible criminal “obstruction of justice”.

Ashcroft and Mueller became part of the corruption and cover up problems at the FBI and DOJ initiated under President Clinton by Janet Reno and Louis Freeh.

Timothy Lynch of the Cato Institute described these ongoing problems with the FBI and FBI Director Robert Mueller in this interview with PBS in 2001: “One thing that concerns me greatly is one of the ongoing problems that we have had with the FBI has been the failure of that agency to turn over evidence that it has in its possession over to the trial court and over to people accused of crimes and to their defense teams. We saw it in the Waco case, we saw it in the Ruby Ridge case, and we saw it most dramatically just a few weeks ago in the Timothy McVeigh case where we have thousands of documents suddenly discovered on the eve of an execution”

"He [Robert Mueller] has instituted a policy in the northern district of California [when he was U.S. Attorney there] that we don't see in many other prosecutorial offices around the country. It's called Brady waivers. He has basically asked all the prosecutors on his staff when they enter into plea bargain negotiations, to make sure that the defendants sign what is called or come to be known as a Brady waiver, which means if he pleads guilty, he agrees that he is not going to come forward with a Brady claim later on. As a practical matter, what this means is a person could enter into a plea bargain, plead guilty; he could be sitting in jail, and evidence could be disclosed later on, evidence that tends to show that he is innocent; evidence that should have been turned over by the prosecutors, but because he signed the Brady waiver, he is not going to have a legal remedy to get a new trial.”

“…but this [Brady waivers]” is a systemic policy that he [Robert Mueller] has instituted and defended. It's a very controversial issue in California. …It's raised eyebrows around the country, because what it's trying to do is to shield the government, to insulate the government from its legal disclosure obligations. It basically immunizes prosecutors from claims of misconduct, because again, when this evidence comes to light, because the waivers have been signed, it basically is trying to forestall legal motions for new trials or legal motions to show prosecutorial misconduct.”
So it seems that Robert Mueller may well want to perpetuate the protection of U.S. prosecutors and the FBI leadership involved in extreme misconduct in the OKC bombing case. It appears Mueller may also be protecting FBI leadership and prosecutors with respect to their misconduct and failures in the 1993 WTC bombing, 9/11 and possible future Islamic terror attacks in the U.S.

Robert Mueller met with Congressman Rohrabacher in 2005 to arrange an interview in prison with Terry Nichols. According to the Northeast Intelligence Network Director Douglas Hagmann, Mueller insisted on an FBI agent taking notes during the interview but would not go along with Nichols being asked many vital and relevant questions provided by former KFORTV reporter Jayna Davis, author of The Third Terrorist. It was reported that Nichols was not overly informative to Rohrabacher, perhaps because the presence of the FBI agent taking notes may not have been part of the initial interview agreement with Nichols.

Salt Lake City attorney Jesse Trentadue persuaded Federal Judge Dale Kimbal to order the FBI to release redacted copies of FBI documents related to the OKC bombing. These documents clearly show the FBI’s use of provocateurs and informants in the OKC bombing. Trentadue fought in court for two years against DOJ and FBI attorneys under DOJ AGs Ashcroft and Gonzales and FBI Director Robert Mueller making false arguments and claims to prevent the release of these documents. These same attorneys even tried to frame Trentadue with false allegations of crimes by Trentadue himself.

These FBI documents obtained by Trentadue under court order were never produced by the FBI or the U.S. prosecutors in the Federal trials or even after AG Ashcroft ordered a new search of documents in 2001 when 4000 additional FBI documents were found then. Despite assertions by AG Ashcroft and U.S. Prosecutor Sean Connelly that all documents had been found and that none were relevant to the conduct of the McVeigh or Nichols trial, the documents obtained by Trentadue were very relevant and exculpatory evidence that demonstrate serious and premeditated violations of the law (crimes) by FBI and DOJ officials in not producing them under the Brady Rules.

These documents also expose the FBI and DOJ leadership to civil liability claims if not also to prosecution for criminal negligence at the very least.

Rohrabacher had requested these documents and legal briefs from Trentadue but Rohrabacher intentionally left them out of his OKC bombing report. Rohrabacher and his investigators did not follow up, did not conduct a proper investigation of the documents and did not walk through with Trentadue the FBI documents and legal briefs they had received. See the chapter THE “REASONS” WHY ROHRABACHER MADE HIS OKC BOMBING INVESTIGATION AND REPORT DEFICIENT.

This book will show that the withholding and suppressing of evidence about some of the John Doe terrorists (such as Mujahid Menepta) by the FBI and DOJ and U.S. prosecutors exposed the public to the 9/11 attacks and possible future attacks by the terrorists and by the groups they represent.
IRAQ, ISLAMIC AND DOMESTIC TERRORIST ROLES TO BE EXAMINED

This book will further examine the role of Iraq and the CIA, FBI and Justice Department with Ramzi Yousef, his uncle Khalid Sheik Mohammed, Terry Nichols and McVeigh and with KNOWN others in the OKC bombing. This role could not be fully or adequately addressed by the Rohrabacher report in part because of obstruction and lack of cooperation by the FBI, CIA and Justice Department. However, this author is aware of details of the Rohrabacher investigation not in the report but clearly known to and believed by Rohrabacher and his investigators. These details are especially devastating and incriminating to the FBI, CIA, and DOJ even today. It remains a major and serious concern why these details were left out and whether or not Rohrabacher will pursue them with Congress, President Bush and officials at the FBI, CIA and DOJ.
Ramzi Yousef and Khalid Mohammed, the mastermind of the 9/11 attacks, are both native to Baluchistan, an Iraqi stronghold used by Saddam Hussain and his Iraqi intelligence forces for decades. Yousef and Khalid Mohammed were in the Abu Sayef cell in the Philippines visited by Terry Nichols. But Ramzi Youseff and his uncle were working for Iraq long before the OKC bombing or their activities with Nichols in the Philippines. Youseff traveled with Iraqi Dr. Iman Barbouti in the U.S., in Dallas, in OKC, and in London, England to acquire WMD technologies and materials and equipment for Iraq in the late 1980s just before the first Gulf War with Iraq. They were directly aided illegally by President HW Bush, the CIA and John Negroponte, the Deputy National Security advisor during the Barbouti acquisitions for Iraq.

Records retrieved from Yousef’s computer hard drives show that Yousef and Khalid planned the 9/11 attacks in 1994 and early 1995 before Khalid took his plans to Bin Laden in 1996 for implementation. Records from the same hard drives also reveal letters from Khalid Mohammed to the Siddiqys in New York demanding help. The Siddiqys, Anas and Assad, had been involved in the 1993 WTC bombing and were in OKC with McVeigh on the morning of the OKC bombing, April 19, 1995, a fact witnessed by Debbie Burdick. The Siddiqys were arrested the day of the OKC bombing but later released because of the direct intervention of the FBI and the CIA.

Although the Abu Sayef cell had at least 5 Iraqi members, the cell was also funded by Bin Laden’s brother-in-law, Khalifa, Wali-Khan Amin Shah and Abu Omar. The cell also had another member, Abdul Murad. Abu Omar was a name used by several of Bin Laden’s lieutenants including the Egyptian and FBI informant Ali Mohammed convicted for the 1993 WTC and Tanzanian and Kenyan embassy bombings. Edwin Angeles, an undercover Philippine intelligence agent, and one to two Americans, likely John Lebney and/or Jack Terrell, infiltrated the cell.

Angeles reported that Nichols, “the American farmer” and another unnamed American with Nichols had first met with the Abu Sayeff cell members Youseff, Wali-Khan and Murad in Davao City on the Philippine island of Mindanao in November 1991.

Wali-Khan Amin Shah fought with Osama bin Laden in Afghanistan.

Abdul Murad told the FBI from prison after the OKC bombing that the Liberation Army had a role in the OKC bombing. Edwin Angeles said that Murad was referring to the Palestine Liberation Army and/or the Islamic Jihad.

Murad was a pilot who trained in at least four United States flight schools including one in Texas. Murad and Ramzi Yousef’s convicted accomplice in the 1993 WTC bombing, Ahmed Mohammed Ajaj, were members of the Palestinian Liberation Organization’s AlFatah terror group. Murad and Ajaj had occasion to meet the North American recruiter of AlFatah, Mujahid Abdulquadir Menepta, aka Melvin Lattimore. Iraq and Saddam Hussain supported the Palestinian terror group, AlFatah, financially for years. Menepta was named by BATF agent Jerry Whitney as a participant in the 1993 WTC and OKC bombings at a federal trial in OKC in November 2001. More information on Menepta’s and Ajaj’s direct connections to the OKC bombing, Iraq and terrorists will be presented later in this book.

Jack Terrell was in the CIA and John Lebney was advertised as an American who sold Chinese electronics. CIA operative Jack Terrell was involved in Iran Contra, was in Florida at the same time and place as McVeigh and McVeigh’s and Nichol’s “Kinestik” explosives supplier, CIA operative, Roger Moore. But even more significantly, Terrell was in the Philippines in Cebu City at the same time as Nichols and Ramzi Yousef met. Incidentally, Roger Moore recanted his entire testimony after the Nichols’ federal trial in a letter to federal prosecutors.

Jack Terrell could have known and worked in Florida with dual U.S. and Israeli agent William Northrup who, like Terrell, was directly and heavily involved in Iran Contra. Northrup flew from Florida on April 16, 1995 to warn the OKC FBI on April 17, 1995, of an attack on an OKC federal (Murrah?) building that week.

The DIA, FBI and CIA monitored the Abu Sayef cell and formed a working group that reported to the U.S. ambassador to the Philippines, John Negroponte, according to Sam Karmilowicz, the senior U.S. State Department security officer at the U.S. Philippine embassy at the time. Counterpunch published an interview 'Ex-State Department Security Officer Charges Pre-9/11 Cover-Up' in March 2006, with Sam Karmilowicz who asserted John Negroponte gained foreknowledge of the 9/11 style plot while Negroponte was U.S. ambassador to the Philippines from 1993 to 1996. Karmilowicz has offered to testify for OKC attorney Mike Johnston in Johnston’s ongoing lawsuit against Iraq on behalf of 20 OKC bombing victims.

The monitoring of the cell started in early 1991 when Iraqis accidentally detonated a bomb in the Philippines. U.S. officials monitored the Iraqis and Abu Sayef out of concern that the Iraqi group would try and attack U.S. interests in the Philippines and in the U.S. as a result of the first Gulf War that also occurred in 1991. Negroponte is currently the Director of National Intelligence and as noted earlier knew Yousef before his stint in the Philippines when Yousef acquired U.S. WMDS with the help of Negroponte, the CIA and HW Bush.

Former Pentagon terrorism advisor at the time of the OKC bombing, Jesse Clear, claimed that he was blocked by a FBI legal attaché and U.S. prosecutor Larry Mackey from obtaining details of the monitoring of the Abu Sayef cell by the FBI, CIA and DIA and Negroponte.

Rohrabacher and Rohrabacher’s investigator, Faedra Dugan, knew but did not write about a member of the Arizona militia that went with Nichols to the Philippines and who would have know of or been involved in the Abu Sayef meetings. FBI documents obtained by Salt Lake City attorney Jesse Trentadue reveal that the FBI had 2-3 informants in the Arizona militia at the time. These FBI Arizona militia informants likely also knew of the Nichols meetings with Abu Sayef in the Philippines.
THE FBI AND CIA KNEW OF TERROR PLOT WITH MCVEIGH AT ELOHIM CITY

McVeigh and Nichols had help from Muslims and white supremacists supported by Iraq who collaborated in a terror cell in OKC (see more on this below) and an associated compound near Muldrow, Oklahoma, in far Eastern Oklahoma. The compound was heavily infiltrated by the FBI and CIA and BATF and was called Elohim City.

Despite being left out of his report, Rohrabacher and the FBI knew that McVeigh had been in a meeting in a trailer at Elohim City in 1995, with a German national explosives and training officer, Andreas Strassmeyer, as well as Dennis Mahon.

In April 1997 an FBI and a BATF agent interviewed a Mr. John Shults. The interview is recorded in an official FBI 302 interview report obtained by a Freedom of Information Act request (FOIA).

John Shults revealed in his FBI and BATF interview that he accompanied Chevy Kehoe to a meeting at Elohim City Oklahoma in 1994 with Timothy McVeigh and two other men, one having a German accent with the name “Andy”[Strassmeyer]. Discussed at the meeting were white supremacy, militia movements, and “a delivery” that had to be made “very soon”. This delivery is likely the bomb components used to blow up the Murrah Building.

FBI and OK Highway patrol documents clearly show Strassmeyer’s presence was well known to the U.S. State Department, FBI (Director Louis Freeh personally) and CIA who inserted him illegally at Elohim City in 1989. The FBI and Louis Freeh protected Strassmeyer from apprehension by the INS after the OKC bombing and arranged to have FBI and CIA operative, Dave Hollaway, escort Strassmeyer to Germany via the Mexican border from his hideout with Kirk Lyons at the CAUSE Foundation in North Carolina. FBI reports show Hollaway gave McVeigh advice on where to park the Ryder truck bomb for optimal damage (more on Hollaway is presented below).

After Strassmeyer was safely tucked away back in Germany, U.S. prosecutor Beth Wilkinson gave Strassmeyer a poor and cursory interview by phone in which Strassmeyer denied involvement. The Rohrabacher report leaves all of these vital details out about the FBI, CIA and DOJ complicity with Strassmeyer although the report mentions Lyons and Strassmeyer.

FBI and phone records also reveal McVeigh called Elohim City to talk with Strassmeyer around April 5, 1995.

The other man who lived at Elohim City in the trailer meeting with McVeigh and Strassmeyer was Dennis Mahon. The FBI and CIA knew before the OKC bombing that Dennis Mahon, received a monthly stipend of $200 from Iraq and gave speeches on behalf of Iraq and Saddam Hussein at rallies in Tulsa, Oklahoma.
It is apparent that McVeigh, not just Nichols, was in contact with Iraqi experts who helped both of them in the OKC bombing. Mahon may have helped McVeigh contact Iraqis as well as Nichols via Nichols’ Ramzi Yousef connections described earlier.

When arrested by OK Highway Patrol trooper Charles Hanger, McVeigh had several phone numbers for Iraqi intelligence that were turned over to the FBI. According to Chicago Attorney David Schippers, the office of Deputy Secretary of Defense, Paul Wolfowitz, confirmed the Iraqi intelligence phone numbers with McVeigh and that DOD was angry with the FBI for withholding the information about the Iraqi phone numbers. Before Schippers confirmation, the editor of U.S. News and World Report’s “Washington Whispers” column, Paul Bedard personally had told me the same story, but later denied it.
MUSLIM BROTHERHOOD TERRORISTS IN OKLAHOMA

Dr. Samir Khalil, an OKC Jordanian slumlord who emigrated from Libya (or Kuwait), employed Jordanian Abraham Ahmad and Iraqi Al Hussaini along with other Iraqi Republican guard members brought to the U.S. after the first Gulf war by Presidents HW Bush and William Clinton. Ahmad and Hussaini were the subject of an FBI all points bulletin released in OKC the first week after the bombing because they had been seen in front of Murrah with McVeigh and the Ryder truck moments before fleeing the scene the Murrah Building in their late model brown Chevy truck.

Hussaini’s time card had been forged to make it appear that Hussaini could not have been at the Murrah Building before and at the time of the bombing, 9:01 am on April 19, 1995. Hussaini’s co-worker, Ernie Cranfield, said Hussaini’s time sheet stating he was at work at 8:08 a.m had been falsified. Cranfield claimed that Hussaini was working at a house by 10:00 a.m., but wasn't there at 8:30 a.m.

Al Hussaini had been also seen with McVeigh numerous times in OKC before the bombing. Hussaini had served in Sadam’s Hussein’s Republican guard and was brought to OKC along with other Iraqis based on a decision made by HW Bush and carried out during the Clinton administration by CIA directors, James Woolsey and Admiral William Studeman. A week after the OKC bombing, according to the Chicago Tribune, Studeman told a Chicago audience that the OKC bombing was a Middle Eastern sponsored attack. Interestingly enough Studeman had, along with Negroponte and HW Bush, been involved in the acquisition and transfers of U.S. WMDS to Iraq by Ishan Barbouti.

One of Rohrabacher’s investigators, Greg McCarthy, claims that the FBI knew where Al Hussaini was (at a YMCA in Boston) but let him disappear. This is disturbing since the FBI and DOJ knew of Hussaini’s role not only in the OKC bombing, but also as a food and baggage handler at Boston’s Logan Airport with hijacked planes on 9/11. The FBI had numerous attempts to interview Hussaini in OKC for years, especially when he returned for a deposition in his own lawsuit against KFORTV in OKC.

Khalil’s other employees, Jafar Osman and Abraham Ahmad, fled the U.S. after the OKC bombing. The FBI interrogated Ahmad and then he and Osman were allowed to return to the U.S. even though bomb-making equipment was found in Ahmad’s luggage. Iraqis, Abraham Ahmad and Jafar Osman maintained Khalil’s properties in OKC for Khalil’s company Samarra Properties, the name of a famous place in Iraq.

In early May 1995 after the OKC bombing, Khalil was photographed near his auto body shop in OKC with Hussaini, other Iraqis, a heavy set Egyptian man, his wife, and a man identified as Jafar Osman the Iraqi intelligence agent and explosives expert who had met McVeigh with Khalil and Nichols in Vegas. Pentagon terror advisor Jesse Clear and a Congressional expert on Iraq, Ms. Lori Milroie, made an identification of Osman from the photographs.

Terry Nichols and Timothy McVeigh attended the Claude Hall Gun Show in Las Vegas in November and January of 1994 and went to frequented Binyon's Horseshoe and a nearby strip joint called the Glitter Gulch. Dr. Samir Khalil was also in Vegas the same time Nichols and McVeigh were in 1994 and Khalil also visited Bynons’ Horseshoe and the Glitter Gulch. Binyon's Horseshoe is a casino well known to the CIA for money laundering and political payoffs (See Rodney Stich’s book, Defrauding America).

A private professional and licensed investigator learned that McVeigh had met in Vegas with an Iraqi recruiter, Iraqi intelligence agent and Jordanian electrical engineer and explosives expert, Jafar Osman. The meeting occurred in Vegas when Osman’s friend and employer, Dr. Samir Khalil was present.

When the licensed private investigator showed the May 1995 surveillance photos to two CIA agents, he was told Osman was Iraqi intelligence and that the investigator should stay the “hell out of the investigation.”

These photographs have also been turned over to the OKC PD and the FBI in Oklahoma in 1996 and even again recently in 2006 to the FBI in Oklahoma but the FBI investigation was stonewalled by the FBI leadership in Washington DC.

Khalil was divorced from his wife, Carol Khalil, who was killed in the Murrah Building while working for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Samir Khalil collected on a $500,000 life insurance policy on his wife. And it is believed that Carol Khalil had keys and other access to the Murrah Building that could have been used by Samir Khalil to help Iraqi sponsored Islamic terrorist bombers get access to the Murrah Building. Khalil claimed to have relatives in Jordan, Saudi Arabia, and Iraq, who provided the money for his education and real-estate investments. By 1995, he had acquired over 500 properties, mainly through HUD. But in 1973, Khalil was convicted of grand larceny. In 1991, he was indicted in federal court on eight counts of insurance fraud, which included setting fires to some of his properties. In early April 1995 Khalil was being investigated for property scams and income tax evasion by a federal grand jury in OKC being run by Assistant U.S. attorney Ted Richardson. After the OKC bombing the grand jury investigation was mysterious stopped. A year later Ted Richardson was found dead a few miles from Khalil’s home with a gunshot wound to his chest.

It is not surprising that Rohrabacher said the CIA and Justice Department and FBI obstructed him. The conduct of these agencies show they have had something to hide with respect to protecting Samir Khalil (from a federal grand jury indictment in 1995-see below), Abraham Ahmad, Al Hussaini and Jafar Osman involvement with Iraqi intelligence and the OKC bombing. They also arranged the premature release of Abraham Ahmad.

Iraq sheltered several prominent Palestinian terrorist organizations in Baghdad, including Hamas and the Palestine Liberation Front (PLF), known for attacks against Israel.

A former Chairman of the House Intelligence Committee from Oklahoma, David McCurdy, wrote in a May 1995 letter to the Oklahoma Gazette that Hamas had local OK bombing experts capable of and that likely assisted in the OKC bombing. Congressmen Ernest Istook of Oklahoma told two deputy sheriffs, Don Hammonds and Dave Kochenforfer, on the night of the OKC bombing that he and the FBI had received warning a week before the bombing from a local Islamic terror group (Hamas) of a threat of an attack on the Murrah Building.

The OKC bombing's Dr Samir Khalil is believed to have worked for Palestinian Islamic Jihad. Khalil may also have met with Dr Ayman Zawahiri in April 1995 in OKC and at a Norman mosque that Zawahiri visited while traveling with Ali Mohammed who was working for the FBI at the time out of Sacramento. Zawahiri is a major AlQaeda and Egyptian Islamic Jihad leader.

In 2002, James Patterson of the Indianapolis Star reported reading a sworn affidavit (turned over to the House Government Reform Committee and FBI) of a witness that claimed Khalid Mohammed had actually been in OKC at the time of the OKC bombing. The witness was purportedly Sharon Twilley, the secretary of Dr Samir Khalil. Twilley allegedly said she wrote two checks from Khalil and handed them to Khalid Mohammed. Recall that Khalid Mohammed was another member of the Abu Sayef cell who is to have met with Ramzi Yousef and Terry Nichols in the Philippines. For information on other possible eyewitness sightings of Khalid Mohammed in OKC see the APPENDIX NOTES, Item 1.

Iraq sheltered the Abu Nidal Organization, an international terrorist organization that carried out terrorist attacks in twenty countries, killing or injuring almost 900 people.

Each of these groups had offices in Baghdad and received training, logistical assistance, and financial aid from the government of Iraq. Louis Freeh bragged to Congress in support of the Anti Terrorism bill in May 1995 that the FBI had helped populate three Abu Nidal cells in Dallas, California and Virginia. Iraqi agents murdered Abu Nidal in his Baghdad apartment in 2002 just before U.S. forces moved into Iraq.

All the above groups described above- Islamic Jihad, Abu Nidal, Hamas and Palestinian (PLO, PLF, AlFatah, Palestinian Islamic Jihad) - were part of the MUSLIM BROTHERTHOOD that had direct financial support from Iraq/Saddam Hussein, and worked with AlFatah and AlFuqra terror groups and OKC bombing plot participants Dr. Samir Khalil and Abdul Murad (Philippines, Abu Sayef) and Melvin Lattimore (Mujahid Adulqadir Menepta) in the U.S.

The top fundraiser for Hamas in the U.S. was Mufid Adulqader who worked with at the Oklahoma Department of Transportation (ODOT) at the time of the OKC bombing. He is believed to have known and perhaps participated in the OKC bombing plot with Menepta, Dr. Samir Khalil, Iraqis and an OKC based terrorist “XYZ” criminal enterprise described in the chapter: ISHAN BARBOUTI SET UP TERROR ENTERPRISE FOR IRAQ.

Abdulqader and the head of Hamas, Khaled Meshall are brothers. Meshall is also suspected in helping facilitate the OKC bombing. Recall, as noted above, that the Chairman of the House Intelligence Committee from Oklahoma, David McCurdy, publicly wrote in May 1995, that Hamas members, like Abdulqader and Meshall, facilitated the OKC bombing.

The head of Syrian Islamic Jihad Ramadan Sallah was close to Abdulqader and Meshall. Sallah was at the World Islamic Studies Institute (WISE) at the University of Southern Florida and connected to indicted terrorist Sammy AlArian. A federal raid on an OKC mosque on March 13, 1995, was looking for Sallah may who also may have been in OKC as a precursor to OKC bombing.

Just before the OKC bombing, Meshall and Sallah left the U.S. for protection in Syria. Sallah and Meshall are working to help Hezbollah and Hamas. Meshall also spends time in Egypt with Egyptian Islamic Jihad whose head was Dr. Ayman Zawahiri, AlQaeda’s number two leader.

Abdullah Sheikh Azam was a major leader in the Muslim Brotherhood and he wrote the charter for AlQaeda. Azam was a mentor for Bin Laden in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. Azam came to address an Islamic terrorism conference hosted in OKC in 1988 and reported on by terrorism expert Steve Emerson. AlQaeda set up an AlQaeda Service center in OKC around the time of Azam’s visit to OKC. Bin Laden’s top lieutenant, Dr Zawahiri of AlQaeda may well have come to OKC in April 1995, to work with the Muslim Brotherhood network of Hamas, AlQaeda, Islamic Jihad, AlFatah, Iraq, Syria, Iran, Azam, Bin Laden, Zawahiri, Dr. Samir Khalil, Al Hussaini, Ali Mohammed, Mujahid[in] Menepta, Mufid Abduldader, Ramadan Sallah, Khaled Meshall, Sammy AlArian and the “XYZ” terror business enterprise to oversee and help put the final touches on the OKC bombing.
IT STARTED WITH THE 1993 WTC BOMBING

Rohrabacher complained in his report that the Justice Department, particularly the U.S. Attorneys office in New York refused to provide information concerning allegations against Samir Khalil’s possible involvement in the 1993 WTC bombing. The U.S. Attorney who handled the 1993 WTC bombing, Andrew C. McCarthy produced a list of un indicted co-conspirators for the 1993 WTC bombing that included the names of two men, Samir Khalil and Ahmed Yousef. I arranged to have this list provided to Rohrabacher’s investigator, Greg McCarthy. Rohrabacher was rebuffed when he sought information from the U.S. Attorneys in New York and with the DOJ as to whether or not the man on these men on the list were in fact the same men as Dr. Samir Khalil of OKC and his brother Ahmed Yousef.

But other information that Rohrabacher may not know and was not told by the DOJ and U.S. Attorneys shows it is highly likely that Samir Khalil of OKC and his brother Ahmed are in fact the men on the unindicted co-conspirators list of Andrew McCarthy.

Phone records show that Ramzi Yousef’s convicted accomplice in the 1993 WTC bombing, Ahmed Mohammed Ajaj, worked in Texas and made calls to Dr Samir Khalil’s Houston properties before the 1993 WTC bombing. Ajaj had been arrested in Israel for smuggling arms to Hamas and the Palestinian Organization’s Al Fatah terror group, a pedigree that Ajaj shared with Samir Khalil, Menepta and Abdul Murad of the Philippine Abu Sayef cell.

Khalil's brother Mike, also known as Ahmed Yousef, was involved with a group of Iranians in Huntsville, Alabama who attempted to compromise female enlisted personnel in an attempt to procure military secrets. Ahmed Yousef tried to compromise a woman from Tuscumbee, Alabama, whom Ahmed dated after meeting her in Oklahoma City in late 1982, when they worked together at Shotgun Sam's Pizza Parlor.

But the Justice Department has even much more to hide from Rohrabacher than just the involvement of Samir Khalil and his brother in the 1993 WTC bombing.

A DOJ informant Cary James Gagan met and worked with an Arab man using the same name as Samir Khalil, Omar Khalil, for an attack on a Midwest federal building and to deliver bomb-making materials to Junction City Kansas (where McVeigh and Nichols worked closely together) shortly before the OKC bombing. DOJ informant Gagan delivered a letter to the Justice Department on April 6, 1995 reporting that he had "specific information that within two weeks" a federal building in the Midwest (that included the Murrah Building) was to be bombed. U.S. Attorney Henry Solano confirmed that his Denver office granted immunity in September 1994 to informant Gagan for his information about a plot by apparent Middle Eastern terrorists and U.S. citizens to bomb a number of federal buildings.

Gagan alleged that South American drug lords worked with Islamic terrorists in employing Gagan to deliver explosive powders in bottles and a mixer to Junction City, Kansas for the OKC bombing. The Islamic terrorists Gagan spoke of included Khalil and the 1993 WTC bombers, Ramzi Yousef and the Abu Sayef terrorists in the Philippines. Note that the book that Ramzi Yousef and Terry Nichols both used in the Philippines made mention of explosive powders possibly similar to what Gagan delivered to Kansas, The Chemistry of Powders and Explosives.

It is not surprising that Rohrabacher claims the Justice Department (DOJ) obstructed him. The conduct of the DOJ shows DOJ has had much to hide with respect to their forewarning from Gagan and their suppressing the involvement of Samir Khalil and his brother Ahmed Yousef in the 1993 WTC bombing and Khalil’s involvement in the OKC bombing.

The FBI, CIA and DOJ also intentionally lied to local authorities that led to the premature release of Abraham Ahmad and three men seen with McVeigh arrested in OKC and Dallas that were also involved in the 1993 WTC bombing, Anas and Assad Siddiqy and Mohammed Chafti.

The arrests and names of the men were reported in major national newspapers outside of OK the week of the bombing. Witness Debbie Burdick, who had seen the men in OKC with McVeigh. But FBI agent Odom from Denver aggressively intimidated Burdick. Odom told Burdick if she talked to the press or defense attorneys, she would “harm her country”. Attorney General Janet Reno and FBI OKC Bomb Task Force inspector Danny Defenbaugh lied about the arrest of the three men and hid the FBI 302 reports of their arrest until they were found in his Dallas office in January 2001. Bomb sniffing dogs had found explosives residues in the luggage of the men who had switched license plates on their rental car. FBI and CIA agent Floyd Zimms admitted he lied to OKC police about the description of the men’s vehicle so they would be released in Dallas despite an all points bulletin issued for them by the OK State Highway Patrol.

On the day of the OKC bombing after the Murrah Building was bombed, the head of Saudi intelligence, Prince Turki Faisal called Vincent Cannistraro, the former CIA station chief for the Middle East, and told Cannistraro that Sadam Hussein of Iraq had hired seven Pakistanis to help carry out the OKC bombing. Cannistraro called the FBI and FBI agent Kevin Foust recorded the Prince Turki account to Cannistraro in an official FBI 302 interview report. McVeigh defense attorney Stephen Jones also learned that the Saudi Arabian Intelligence Service reported that Iraq had hired seven Pakistani mercenaries--Afghani War veterans known as the “Afghan Freedom Fighters or the Mujahadeen”--to bomb targets in the U.S including the Murrah Building in OKC.

Anas and Asad Siddiqy and Mohammed Chafti arrested on the day of the OKC bombing are Pakistanis involved in the 1993 WTC bombing and may have been three of these seven Pakistanis Prince Turki claimed Saddam hired to help do the OKC bombing.

Another Pakistani who also may be one of the seven Pakistanis allegedly hired by Iraq is Mujeeb Cheema. Cheema is a Pakistani Muslim from Tulsa, Oklahoma, and was identified as a major suspect in the OKC bombing by FBI and OKC police Department.
informant Hanni Kamal. Kamal linked Cheema to the OKC bombing activities of Dr. Samir Khalil and also to criminal automobile scams. Cheema may also have connections to Pakistani intelligence, the ISI.

The FBI has done nothing adequate about Saudi Prince Turki’s report that seven Pakistanis were hired to help do the OKC bombing connecting other than have five different version of FBI agents interview with Cannistraro written as if to fuzzy up the original account to former CIA official Vincent. Cannistraro. The FBI and DOJ have ignored evidence about and instead have protected four Pakistanis who may have been some of the seven Pakistanis described by Prince Turki as being hired by Iraq to help do the OKC bombing.

The four Pakistanis are the Siddiqy brothers, Mohammed Chafti and Mujeeb Cheema. Rohrabacher knows all of this and left it out of his OKC bombing report. Are Rohrabacher, the FBI and DOJ protecting Saudi Prince Turki and these Pakistanis from public scrutiny because they may have all been involved in the 1993 WTC bombing and with the CIA’s operation to use the Mujahidin to fight the Russians in Afghanistan? Many Mujahidin members were Pakistanis and are now in AlQaeda and, like bin Laden, are now attacking the U.S. and Israel.

World Net Daily and The New York Times reported that the FBI and DOJ intentionally allowed the 1993 WTC bombing despite attempts by bomb maker Emad Salem and his FBI handler Nancy Floyd to stop the bombing. Leslie Stahl reported in a CBS documentary that the U.S. Attorney, Andrew McCarthy, of New York approved the release of another 1993 WTC bomb maker, Abdul Rahman Yasin, so he could travel to Iraq. Even with acid burns on his hands and jeans, Yasin had cooperated with the FBI in showing them where and how the bombs were made a week after the 1993 WTC bombing. Neal Herman was the FBI agent who supervised the investigation of the 1993 WTC bombing. When asked by Leslie Stahl why Yasin was released Herman said:

“It was a collective decision made by the F.B.I., by the United States Attorney’s office, whether or not that person [Yasin]-- there was enough information to-- to hold him[Yasin]. And at that time—“There were several of us that did not want him to be allowed to leave, but he did. And that decision was made [by U.S. Attorneys office].”
FBI AND JUSTICE DEPARTMENT PROTECT THEIR PROVOCATEURS

The fact that participants in the 1993 WTC bombing were also involved in the OKC bombing would also be something that the FBI and Justice Department would want to obstruct Rohrabacher over especially the ones who worked for the FBI and were protected by the Justice Department in both attacks. But these same participants in the 1993 WTC and OKC attacks do not only include Samir Khalil, Ahmed Yousef, the Siddiqys and Mohammed Chafti, they also include Mujahid Menepta and Ali Mohammed who both worked as informants/provocateurs for the FBI protected by the DOJ.

Ali Mohammed trained the 1993 WTC bombers and brought Dr. Ayman Zawahiri, the leader of Al Qaeda and Egyptian Islamic Jihad, to OKC at the time of the OKC bombing in April 1995. The U.S. Attorney Patrick Fitzgerald also knew in 1994 that Ali Mohammed was a conspirator in the 1993 WTC bombing. But Fitzgerald allowed Ali Mohammed to walk the U.S. streets for other terror attacks including the 1995 OKC bombing and the 1998 bombings of U.S. embassies in Tanzanian and Kenya. The FBI and CIA knew of the Ali Mohammed plans to bomb these embassies for at least six months beforehand from phone taps and taping of Ali Mohammed and el Hage, Bin Laden’s secretary. ElHage was a close associate of Ali Mohammed in Dallas. The FBI intentionally did not intervene to stop the U.S. embassy bombings.

These foreknowledge facts were also known to Fitzgerald but were suppressed by Fitzgerald during Ali Mohammed’s and el Hage trials. Fitzgerald would also have known that a man using Ali Mohammed’s nom de guerre, Abu Omar, had been involved in the Abu Sayef cell that plotted with Ramzi Yousef and Khalid Mohammed to do the OKC bombing and the 9/11 attacks while they were in the Philippines.

Ali Mohammed was convicted for his roles in the 1993 WTC and Tanzanian and Kenyan embassy bombing attacks but never was convicted for his role in the OKC bombing. According to the National Geographic Channel documentary, "Triple Cross," that aired in August 2006, Ali was never sentenced and is under Federal protective custody. According to this article, U.S. federal prosecutors suppressed critical evidence in trial of 1993 World Trade Center bombers, U.S. prosecutors, Michael Chertoff and Patrick Fitzgerald covered up Ali Mohammed’s role for the FBI in the 1993 WTC bombing during Federal trials connected to the bombing:

“The two men responsible for the failure to present the surveillance intelligence on the 1993 World Trade Center bombers to the juries and grand juries hearing the charges -- the main federal prosecutors for New York City and New Jersey in the bombing case -- were Patrick J. Fitzgerald and Michael Chertoff, respectively.”

When arrested in the U.S., Ali Mohammed was carrying terror manuals he had written for Al Qaeda on how to plant explosives in public buildings like what happened in the embassy bombings and is strongly suspected to have happened in the 1995 OKC bombing and the 9/11 attacks on the orders of Khalid Mohammed. For more on the acknowledgement of this by President GW Bush see the next chapter, “MORE THAN

Black Muslim, Al-Fatah and Al-Fuqra terror group member, Mujahid Abdulqadir Menepta was seen down the street from the Murrah Building at the Travelers Aid with McVeigh’s car and two FBI informants, Shawn Kenny and James Rosencrans the day before the OKC bombing. Menepta was also seen numerous times at the Cactus motel in OKC where McVeigh had help building the Ryder truck bomb from Iraqis who worked for Dr. Samir Khalil. Menepta is a U.S. citizen from St Louis, Missouri and his America name is Melvin Lattimore.

In the summer of 2001, the chief witness at the Travelers Aid, Gloria Smith wrote Attorney General John Ashcroft and the Inspector General of the DOJ, Glen Fine, about the 1995 Travelers Aid incident with Mujahid Menepta, Shawn Kenny and Rosencrans. As the Director of Travelers Aid, Smith had 20 years of experience of working with FBI agents in the past. Smith’s information was also presented to Ashcroft in his personal Virginia residence by Air Force General Benton K. Partin in August 2001 and if acted upon may have averted 9/11. Smith complained that 6 different FBI agents came to the Travelers Aid over 6 months after the OKC bombing, took few notes, wrote no reports, had no sketches made, and harshly browbeat and intimidated four witnesses who had seen the men with McVeigh’s car at Travelers Aid. To this day, the FBI and DOJ have done nothing about this incident that was reported on local OKC radio station, KTOK and local television station KOCOTV.

The Travelers Aid incident is another example of where FBI agents intentionally did not create official FBI reports from thousands of lead sheets created from interviews with witnesses. As noted above, Nichols defense attorney Mike Tigar presented evidence to Judge Matsch in 1996 that Danny Defenbaugh’s FBI agents under supervisor Mark White had deliberately not created FBI 302 reports from thousands of lead sheets with key witnesses nor turned these lead sheets over to the defense attorneys.

One of the men with Menepta and Kenny was James Rosencrans, Michael Fortier’s neighbor and a drug dealer from Kingman, Arizona who testified for the U.S. prosecutors and the FBI at the OKC bombing federal grand jury in June 1995. Rosencrans was permitted by the DOJ and FBI to keep the proceeds of sales of guns stolen from Roger Moore as payment for drugs he claimed he provided McVeigh and Fortier.

Another clue to the sudden cessation of real investigation by the FBI to protect the FBI’s use of informants and provocateurs is given by an FBI agent investigating Robert Jacques. Jacques was a John Doe seen, with McVeigh and Nichols at a real estate office in Cassville, Missouri in November 1994. After a year of investigating Jacques, the FBI agent told real estate agent Joe Davidson that Jacques appeared to be “one of ours.” Time magazine carried a sketch of Jacques and quoted the FBI as saying the real estate agent’s story was very reliable because they had correctly identified unknown dental work on McVeigh’s front teeth.

Defense attorney Stephen Jones has written that he believes Jacques may have been a DEA agent. A man with the name Robert Jacques shared a mail drop with James Rosencrans in Arizona. If Robert Jacques was DEA, then Rosencrans may have also been a DEA informant/provocateur used in the OKC bombing case.

The other man with Menepta was Shawn Kenny, an Army private that the FBI used to provoke and track McVeigh. Kenny and Kevin McCarthy posed as Christian Identity white supremacist members living at Elohim City with Dennis Mahon and Andreas Strassmeyer. They also were Midwest Bank robbers who obtained “Kinestik” explosives (like those provided by Roger Moore to McVeigh and Nichols) and helped McVeigh rob Midwestern banks. See “Christian Identity’ Informants Involved in OKC Bombing.”

Rohrabacher’s report claims the FBI, Bureau of Prisons, and Justice Department were very unhelpful to Rohrabacher’s investigators in locating Kevin McCarthy who had been in a federal witness protection program. Rohrabacher should have known about Shawn Kenney but does not mention him in Rohrabacher’s report. Kenny was the subject of FBI memos and teletypes obtained in Salt Lake City Federal Court by attorney Jesse Trentadue. The details of Kenny’s involvement (as argued in briefs before Federal Judge Dale Kimbal) were provided by Trentadue to Rohrabacher for over a year before his report was released. Yet neither Rohrabacher nor his investigators ever walked through the FBI documents and followed up with Trentadue concerning FBI provocateur Shawn Kenny.

Menepta was named by BATF agent Jerry Whitney as a participant in the 1993 WTC and OKC bombings during a federal trial in OKC in November 2001. Menepta’s credit card was used to purchase the bomb making materials used by Emad Salem and Abdul Rahman Yasin to build the 1993 WTC bomb. Menepta also roomed at various times in Norman, Oklahoma with 9/11 participants Al Shehhi, Al Hazmi, AlAttas and Zecharias Moussaoui. Menepta traveled to Minnesota in August 2001 and attempted to bail AlAttas and Moussaoui out of FBI custody. Imam Nedaya from Senegal was at the Norman mosque attended by Menepta, AlAttas and Moussaoui. Nedaya was taped by the FBI talking to AlAttas and Moussaoui about “being on jihad” just before 9/11. The DOJ prosecutor, John Richter, arranged a reduced sentence for Menepta at the November 2001 trial. Menepta was put back on the streets less than a year after 9/11 despite the testimony from the BATF about Menepta’s role in the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombings. Menepta now runs an Islamic terror institute in St Louis. AlAttas and Meneptas involvement was suppressed at the Moussaoui trial by U.S. Attorneys, the FBI or DOJ even though they knew about it.

A man with the name Melvin Lattimore, Menepta’s U.S. citizenship name, lived in Hollywood, Florida at the same time that Jose Padilla, Roger Moore, Rodney Hampton El and McVeigh were there in 1993-1994. Jose Padilla meets the description (looked like a young Hispanic gang member) of the witnesses in Newkirk, OK who saw Nichols with him on April 18, 1995 and who identified him from one of the FBI John Doe 2 sketches showed them by the FBI. That sketch shows a faint scar on his cheek just like the one Padilla has. Khalid Sheik Mohammed (KSM) has been indicted for his involvement in the 1993 WTC and 9/11 attacks. KSM, the man who met with Ramzi Yousef and Terry
Nichols in the Philippines, may have used Padilla in the OKC bombing especially since KSM may also have been in OKC at the time of the bombing (see James Patterson report above) and since KSM resent Padilla back into the U.S. after 9/11 for an alleged dirty bomb plot. Hampton El was an Al Qaeda recruiter of former U.S. servicemen who served in the first Gulf War.

Rohrabacher was provided detailed evidence about Menepta before his report came out.
When given this evidence, Rohrabacher claimed that neither his investigators, the FBI, CIA nor the Justice Department, had ever told him about Menepta before. The evidence about Menepta was given to Rohrabacher at the same time he was also given the evidence about Samir Khalil being an unindicted co-conspirator in the 1993 WTC bombing. However, it is a mystery why Rohrabacher did not mention Menepta in his OKC bombing report since Menepta, like Samir Khalil, was involved in the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombings. Menepta was not even mentioned in the chapter of the Rohrabacher report where Rohrabacher did complain about Samir Khalil not being adequately investigated by the FBI and DOJ.

The FBI, DOJ and U.S. Attorneys likely would have also obstructed and not cooperated with Rohrabacher concerning Menepta. Menepta was protected by the FBI, the DOJ, and John Richter for years despite BATF testimony and direct reports to John Ashcroft by General Partin and Travelers Aid witness Gloria Smith.

American black Muslims like Mujahid Menepta were trained by the CIA and Al Qaeda member Ali Mohammed to fight with the Mujahidin against the Russians but were also involved in the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombings and 9/11 attacks. Many of these CIA trained black Muslims, like Menepta, are members of the Al Fuqra terror organization.

Al Fuqra has scores of terror training centers in the U.S.. Al Fuqra has been responsible for more terror attacks in the U.S. over the past 25 years than all other terror organizations combined. The Beltway sniper, John Muhammed was a member of Al Fuqra. Richard Reid, the shoe bomber, was an Al Fuqra member. There is an Al Fuqra center in Red House, Virginia, not far from Camp Peary, site of the CIA training of black Muslims for the Mujahidin. Menepta has direct ties to Red House, Virginia. Al Fuqra’s leader is Sheikh Jilani who is headquartered in Pakistan and strongly aligned with Al Qaeda. Yet Al Fuqra is still being intentionally left off the official terrorism lists of the FBI, DOJ, State Department and the CIA. Why?

The CIA trained American black Muslim and Al Fuqra terrorist members in the late 1980s at Camp Peary in Virginia to fight with the Mujahidin against the Soviet Union. Egyptian Ali Mohammed was an FBI/Al Qaeda double agent who trained black Muslim members for the Mujahidin for the CIA and U.S. Army. However, Ali Mohammed also worked for Bin Laden and Khalid Mohammed. Ali Mohammed also trained the bombers for the 1993 WTC attack who used Menepta’s credit card to buy the explosives for the bombing. He may well have trained the Pakistani Siddiqys and Mohammed Chafta seen with McVeigh in OKC moments before the OKC Murrah Building was blown up.
John Cooley, a former journalist with ABC, wrote in his book, Unholy Wars: Afghanistan, America and International Terrorism that Muslims were recruited by the CIA to be trained for the Mujahidin at Camp Peary, the CIA’s spy training camp in Virginia. Young Afghans, Pakistanis, Arabs from Egypt and Jordan, and even some African-American black Muslims were taught sabotage skills.

The November 1, 1998, the British Independent reported that one of those charged with the 1998 bombings of U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania, Ali Mohammed, had trained Bin Laden’s Mujahidin fighters in 1989. These Mujahidin fighters were recruited at the al Kifah Refugee Center in Brooklyn, New York (where the Pakistani Siddiqys and Mohammed Chafti lived at the time), given paramilitary training in the New York area and then sent to Afghanistan with U.S. assistance to join Mujahidin forces. Ali Mohammed was a member of the U.S. Army’s elite Green Berets and worked for the CIA, and later the FBI out of Sacramento.

McVeigh called three FBI and CIA provocateurs just days before the OKC bombing to tell them of McVeigh’s plans: Dave Hollaway, Andreas Strassmeir and Ronald Greisacker (a.k.a. Laycock). Greisacker operated with militia types for the FBI in Kansas, Texas and Montana, Greisacker was seen in Kansas with McVeigh and Andreas Strassmeir. McVeigh called Greensacker at St. Mary’s, Kansas. Greensacker fits THE description of one of the men seen loading the OKC truck bomb ingredients at Geary Lake in Kansas.

After the OKC bombing Ronald Greisacker set up the Freeman in Montana on bank fraud for FBI siege, arrest and conviction while David Halloway arrived on scene to negotiate the end of the Montana Freemen standoff for the FBI in 1996. Greisacker and Hollaway likely knew each other and were both well known to the FBI as provocateurs.

Greisacker very likely is one of the two suspects (FBI provocateurs) - suspects 1 or 3 - identified by Kansas authorities and FBI documents described in Joel Dyer’s book Harvest of Rage. Greisacker was protected by the FBI, set up bank fraud schemes to entrap the Freemen, Kansas and Texas militias and helped McVeigh assemble the truck bomb ingredients in Kansas.

“In addition to appearing on television, the man was quoted in a Kansas City newspaper article after the bombing, bragging that he was using Freemen tactics to pass off bogus liens and checks in Kansas (GREISACKER?). Several Kansas law-enforcement sources told me that, at the time these quotes were published, there was a massive federal investigation into Freemen-sponsored bank fraud in Kansas – an investigation that included Farley’s man (Farley is the witness who saw the man building a truck bomb at Geary lake in Kansas).”

“A few days later, after the bombing, Farley claims, he saw the man again. This time on TV, being interviewed about militia issues.”

“Subject No. 3 was also named in a document pertaining to a federal bank-fraud investigation in Texas. (GREISACKER?) The Texas case resulted in federal fraud charges being filed against several anti-government Republic of Texas (R.O.T.) members, including the group’s leader, Richard McLaren.”

“As part of its evidence against R.O.T., the government entered videotapes of the group preparing the fraudulent bank warrants. The videos also revealed a surprise. They clearly showed that the person teaching the R.O.T. how to create the bogus documents was none other than Subject No. 3. What McLaren’s defense team couldn’t understand was why their client and virtually every OTHER (besides Suspect No. 3) person on the tape was arrested and charged in this investigation.”

“I interviewed Cliff Hall, the owner of The Topeka Metro News. He told me that Subject No. 3 had taken out public notices in his publication. The ads were Freeman-style concoctions dealing with renouncement of citizenship and lien notices. Hall says a Secret Service agent came to his paper to obtain copies of the notices as part of their investigation into Subject No. 3.”

“When asked by the judge if he, Suspect No. 3, was the man named in the subpoena, the subject gave a standard Freeman defense. … and Subject No. 3 was never forced to explain his apparent immunity to prosecution.”

“Roe (the Kansas County Attorney) said that the individual resembled John Doe No. 2, and also that this man was said to have been exploding fertilizer bombs on his eastern-Kansas farm prior to the Murrah building explosion.”

Hollaway worked with Greisacker and likely FBI provocateur suspects 1,2 and 3 in Kansas (he even could have been one of the three suspects) and he met and knew Suspect No. 1 and Suspect No. 2 since they were associated with the Freemens in Kansas and Texas, were protected by the FBI, and because Hollaway’s and McVeigh’s mutual friend Strassmeir had been in Kansas with McVeigh interacting with the same militia and Freemens provocateur

German national Andreas Strassmeir was a provocateur who helped and encouraged McVeigh. Strassmeir was in the US illegally without a visa but was brought into the U.S. by the HW Bush administration with the help of CIA operative Vincent Petruskie in the late 1980s.

CIA pilot Dave Hollaway later brought Strassmeir to Elohim City in far eastern Oklahoma during the HW Bush administration. While at the heavily FBI infiltrated Elohim City compound Strassmeir was a military training officer who encouraged McVeigh to do the OKC bombing.
In 1989 Strassmeir was arrested by the OK state highway patrol only to be released because of the direct intervention of the HW Bush State Department without his being deported back to Germany.

Dave Hollaway also gave McVeigh advice as to how to rent a Ryder truck to avoid detection and where to park the truck bomb in front of the Murrah building for maximum damage. During the Clinton administration FBI Director Louis Freeh knew of Strassmeir’s presence at Elohim City and knew that Dave Hollaway helped Strassmeir escape the INS by driving Strassmeier to Mexico after the OKC bombing. This information about Freeh and Strassmeir is contained in FBI memos and teletypes obtained in Salt Lake City Federal Court by attorney Jesse Trentadue.
MORE THAN JUST A TRUCK BOMB?

Strategic Investment Weekly and its editor, former CIA Director William Colby, published this March 20, 1996 article “Pentagon Report: Destruction in OKC caused by 5 Separate Bombs”:

“A classified report prepared by two independent Pentagon experts has concluded that the destruction of the federal building in Oklahoma City last April was caused by five separate bombs. The two experts reached the same conclusion for the same technical reasons. Sources close to the Pentagon study say Timothy McVeigh did play a role in the bombing but peripherally, as a 'useful idiot.' The multiple bombings have a Middle Eastern "signature," pointing to either Iraqi or Syrian involvement."

During the Nichols trial, an FBI lab technician confirmed that chemical tests had identified a piece of paper as being the remains of a wrapper from a stick of dynamite. This dynamite could have been planted inside the Murrah Building. The testimony can be found in an OKC Bombing Trial Transcript for the morning of 12/01/1997.

The front page of the Daily Oklahoman newspaper carried a story on April 30, 1995 entitled "Building's Instability Threatens Recovery". In the third and four paragraphs of the article information is presented that suggests the possibility that explosives were used inside the Murrah Building to help bring it down in addition to the Ryder truck bomb outside:

"At the bomb site, rescue workers discovered two extremely unstable concrete and steel columns that suffered the same effect as a "beaver working on a tree', Assistant Fire Chief Jon Hansen said Saturday."

On May 18, 1995, one month after the bombing, retired Air Force Brigadier General Partin wrote a detailed forensic analysis of the bombing in a report he mailed to members of Congress. The report stated:

"From all the evidence I have seen in the published material," Partin testified, "I can say with a high level of confidence that the damage pattern on the reinforced concrete superstructure could not possibly have been attained from the single truck bomb without supplementing demolition charges at some of the reinforced column bases."

FBI Bomb Task Force Inspector Danny Defenbaugh, along with U.S. Attorneys Beth Wilkerson and Eaton Goldman, visited and interviewed General Partin at his Virginia home in June of 1996 about Partin’s bomb report. Here is an account by General Partin of an incident that occurred during the interview:

“... Agent Defenbaugh was going through the report that I did, and he put his finger on that picture I had in the report… the designated crater, and he said, 'Suppose I told you that is not the crater?'"
Partin knew the picture Defenbaugh was pointing at was of a crater that the FBI had publicly said was the Ryder truck bomb crater. Partin believed Defenbaugh was suggesting that there was another crater created by explosives from additional sources besides the Ryder truck bomb. Also the picture of the crater in Partin’s report pointed to by Defenbaugh had been described by witnesses as smaller than would be expected by a truck bomb that was as large and as well built as the government tried to claim.

There was a large “Pit” area inside the Murrah Building after the bombing that some suspected was another bomb crater, perhaps even another crater that Defenbaugh may have been referring to in his comment to Partin. This “Pit” was described to me by OKC K-9 unit police officer Don Browning. Oklahoma seismologist, Dr. Ray Brown was given access to the Murrah Building to instrument the building before it was later demolished. Dr Brown also described this “Pit” area.

It is very possible that explosives were planted in the Murrah Building based on the Strategic Investment Weekly story, General Partin’s bomb forensic analysis, the FBI testimony of a dynamite wrapper found in the rubble, and the accounts given by the OKC Fire Chief to the local newspaper.

Abu Omar was one of AlQaeda’s sponsors of the Abu Sayef cell visited by Terry Nichols and run by Ramzi Yousef and Khalid Mohammed. Abu Omar may well have been Ali Mohammed since the name Abu Omar was the nom de guerre of Ali Mohammed according to an FBI affidavit presented during Ali Mohammed’s trial. When arrested in the U.S., Ali Mohammed had AlQaeda training manuals he had written on how to plant and hide explosives in public buildings like Ali was convicted for in the 1998 U.S. embassy bombings in Tanzania and Kenya. It is conceivable these same manual instructions were followed to plant explosives in the Murrah Building bombing. Ali Mohammed is believed to have been in OKC around the time of the OKC bombing with Dr Ayman Zawahiri very possibly to make sure Ali’s manual instructions were implemented to plant explosives in the Murrah Building.

These same Ali Mohammed written manual instructions appear to have also been used in the 9/11 attacks that were planned by Khalid Mohammed, Abu Omar, and Ramzi Youseff in the Philippines at the same time that they met with Terry Nichols. Below is a transcript excerpt of President GW Bush’s remarks at his press conference on 9/15/2006 that refer to the distinct possibility that explosives were not only planted by Islamic terrorists in the Murrah building but also in the WTC towers on 9/11 at a high point but below where the planes flew into the towers:

“For example, Khalid Sheikh Mohammed described the design of planned attacks of buildings inside the U.S. and how operatives were directed to carry them out. That is valuable information for those of us who have the responsibility to protect the American people. He told us the operatives had been instructed to ensure that the explosives went off at a high -- a point that was high enough to prevent people trapped above from escaping.”
Yet Senate Intelligence Committee staff Director Eleanor Hill said in 2002 that President GW Bush ordered George Tenet to classify all information the U.S. knew about Khalid Sheik Mohammed (KSM) and his 9/11 style plot plans. As evidenced by President Bush remarks in 2006, it is now known KSM’s plot plans including the use of “explosives placed high in public buildings to trap survivors” as taught to KSM by Ali Mohammed, the FBI, CIA and DOJ protected explosives trainer for the 1993 WTC bombings.

There is also significant seismic, video and eyewitness evidence suggesting that explosives were detonated in the Murrah Building on April 19, 1995 as well as in the WTC towers on 9/11 after the hijacked planes were flown into the towers.

There is eyewitness testimony suggesting who else could have planted explosives in the Murrah Building in addition to McVeigh and how it was done. For more details on this testimony see the chapter GARY D. HUNT KNEW A PLOT AND SOME PLAYERS and the APPENDIX NOTES, Item 2.
ISHAN BARBOUTI SET UP TERROR ENTERPRISE FOR IRAQ

But there is even more powerful evidence to explain Rohrabachers’ assertion that the CIA, FBI and Justice Department criminally obstructed and covered up the OKC bombing.

While shopping for U.S. WMDS with Ramzi Yousef and for Iraq, the CIA and HW Bush, Iraqi Dr. Ishan Barbouti helped finance Dr. Samir Khalil’s acquisition of numerous HUD properties in Oklahoma and Houston. Dual Israeli and U.S. intelligence asset, William Northrup, reported that Ishan’s son, Heidar, protected the Iraqi suspect Al Hussaini in Houston after the OKC bombing.

The Barboutis ran a company in Houston called IBI. Phone records show that Ramzi Yousef’s convicted accomplice in the 1993 WTC bombing, Ahmed Mohammed Ajaj, worked in Texas and made calls to Dr Samir Khalil’s Houston properties before the 1993 WTC bombing. Both Ramzi Yousef and Ahmed Ajaj, worked for Edwards Pipeline Testing and Technical Welding Laboratories in Houston, whose CEO Manual Bhajat was a close associate of Ishan Barbouti.

Dr. Ishan Barbouti traveled in the U.S., Texas, Oklahoma, Florida and in England in the late 1980s on a shopping spree for WMDs including biological and chemical toxins, anthrax, cyanide gas processes, and even a rocket fuel additive, TK7. Accompanying Ishan Barbouti on the shopping spree was Ramzi Yousef, the mastermind of the 1993 WTC bombing and the man who met with Terry Nichols in the Philippines with an Abu Sayef terror cell to assist in the 1995 OKC bombing.

Dr. Ishan Barbouti also set up in the late 1980s an OKC criminal terror enterprise company "XYZ", likely named after the three stars in the Iraqi flag. This terrorist company directly aided the OKC bombing and is still operating in OKC. The criminal and terrorist enterprise “XYZ” is still operated by a Muslim and Egyptian man “Bob” and his wife “Sally.” “Bob” had incorporated 3 mosques in the OKC area.

“Bob” is the same man who appears in the May 1995 surveillance photos with Samir Khalil, Iraqi Al Hussein Hussaini, and Iraqi explosives and intelligence expert Jafar Osman. He has recently been photographed again at the same address used by the “XYZ” company. It is believed that “Bob” could have been introduced to the Egyptian Islamic Jihad leader, Dr Ayman Zawahiri, in April 1995 by Ali Mohammed when they were in Norman, OK at the time of the OKC bombing.

“Bob” and “Sally” directly assisted people known to be prominent suspects in the OKC bombing including Dr Samir Khalil, his employees Abraham Ahmad and Iraqi Al Hussain Hussaini, and the Iraqi explosives expert from Jordan, Jafar Osman, as well as a native born U.S. citizen Muslim convert, Melvin Lattimore, whose Muslim name is Mujahid Abdulqadir Menepa. Menepa used the XYZ address as a business and residence address for many years prior to and at the time of the OKC bombing.

Iraqi Dr. Ishan Barbouti brought “Sally” to Oklahoma from Texas in the late 1980s and... helped fund the properties and mosques acquired by “Sally” and “Bob” used in the criminal enterprise “XYZ” in OKC. Surveillance photos showing Khalil with “Bob and Al Hussaini and Jafar Osman have been provided to the FBI and Congressman Dana Rohrabacher along with proofs and other current photos of “Bob’s identity. Rohrabacher received and discussed with his investigators 40 pages of memos, records and photos provided to Rohrabacher’s investigators and to the FBI concerning Khalil, “XYZ” company, “Bob”, “Sally” and Menepta. However, Rohrabacher did not mention the information in his report.

The “XYZ” company has been involved in drugs, money laundering, property, car and insurance scams, all criminal activities that Menepta was involved in according to the testimony of the BATF at Menepta’s federal trial in November 2001. The FBI has had this information for over 5 months about “XYZ”, Menepta, “Bob” and “Sally” and has done nothing with it even though the “XYZ” company is a known criminal enterprise and a current threat to national security via facilitation of another Islamic terror attack in the U.S..

There are very recent and persistent reports that Iraqis, possibly Iraqi terrorists are coming into the U.S. via Mexico in groups of 2 and 3. Once in the U.S., these Iraqis can easily be moved around by the underground terror railroad set up by the Iraqis, Barboutis, Menepta, Abduladir, Zawahiri and Khalid Mohammed with the help of criminal terror enterprise companies like “XYZ”. The FBI still publicly says there are still known Iraqi agents in the U.S. that are assisting Islamic super terror cells in major U.S. cities comprised of the Muslim Brotherhood members of Hamas, AlQaeda, Islamic Jihad and Hezbollah. OKC is one of these cities today.

Given Ishan’s and Heidar Barbouti’s connections to the CIA, FBI, HW Bush and Negroponte during the illegal transfer of U.S. WMDS to Iraq, it is not surprising that Rohrabacher suggested in his report that the CIA was also obstructing or not helping his investigation. The CIA, and HW Bush would look very bad if the public were to learn and believe that the Barboutis had also set up the company and people in OKC that are a terrorist criminal enterprise involved in the 1993 WTC, 1995 OKC and 9/11 attacks and possibly the next terror attack in the U.S.

Other members of the criminal “XYZ” enterprise are U.S. citizens and Muslim converts, couples, “K” and “W”, who also lived at Muldrow, Oklahoma immediately adjacent to Elohim City, the white supremacist compound in OKC directly involved in the OKC bombing. These couples like Menepta are connected to the AlFuqra Muslim terror organization out of Pakistan that had a training center near Elohim City at Talihina, Ok. Richard Reid, the shoe bomber, and John Muhammed, the beltway sniper, were also members of AlFuqra. AlFuqra has been involved in more terror attacks in the U.S. in the past 25 years than all other terror groups combined. Yet the FBI, CIA and State Department persist in keeping AlFuqra off their terrorism group list.

In the chapter MUSLIM BROTHERHOOD IN OKLAHOMA it was also pointed out that “Bob” and “Sally” and the XYZ” terrorist criminal enterprise were also tied to and under the umbrella of the Muslim Brotherhood activities of Hamas, Islamic Jihad, Al Qaeda, Al Fatah and Al Fuqra in Oklahoma. They may well be part of the Al Qaeda Service Bureau set up in OKC in 1988 possibly by Sheikh Azam.

Abdullah Sheikh Azam was a major leader in the Muslim Brotherhood and he wrote the charter for Al Qaeda. Azam was a mentor for Bin Laden in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. Azam came to address an Islamic terrorism conference hosted in OKC in 1988 and reported on by terrorism expert Steve Emerson. Al Qaeda set up an Al Qaeda Service center in OKC around the time of Azam’s visit to OKC. Bin Laden’s top lieutenant, Dr Zawahiri of Al Qaeda may well have come to OKC in April 1995 to oversee and help put the final touches on the OKC bombing work with the help of “Bob” and “Sally”, their “XYZ” terror business enterprise and their affiliated Muslim Brotherhood network in Oklahoma.

The top fundraiser for Hamas in the U.S. was Mufid Adulqader who worked with “Sally” at the Oklahoma Department of Transportation (ODOT) at the time of the OKC bombing. He is believed to have assisted “Sally” and “Bob”, Menepta, and Dr. Samir Khalil with the Iraqi (and possibly CIA) created “XYZ” terrorist enterprise in their support of the OKC bombing.

Abdulqader and the head of Hamas, Khaled Meshall are brothers. Meshall is also suspected in helping facilitate the OKC bombing. Recall, as noted above, that the Chairman of the House Intelligence Committee from Oklahoma, David McCurdy, publicly wrote in May 1995 that Hamas members, like Abdulqader and Meshall, facilitated the OKC bombing.

The head of Syrian Islamic Jihad Ramadan Sallah was close to Abdulqader and Meshall. Sallah was at the World Islamic Studies Institute (WISE) at the University of Southern Florida and connected to indicted terrorist Sammy Al Arian. A federal raid on an OKC mosque on March 13, 1995 was looking for Sallah may who also may have been in OKC as a precursor to OKC bombing.

Just before the OKC bombing, Meshall and Sallah left the U.S. for protection in Syria. Sallah and Meshall are working to help Hezbollah and Hamas. Meshall also spends time in Egypt with Egyptian Islamic Jihad whose head was Dr. Ayman Zawahiri, Al Qaeda’s number two leader.

Abdulqader was suspended from ODOT after he was indicted for his role in the Dallas based Holy Land and InfoCom terror organizations.

InfoCom in Dallas ran a web site for Iraq for years up until September 5, 2001 when it was raided by the FBI and being investigated by a federal grand jury. InfoCom’s sister company across the street, Holy Land Foundation, was also raided and investigated by the federal grand jury. InfoCom and Holy Land Foundation shared by the same board member Saudi banker Khalid Mahfouz, and Bush family narco attorneys at Akin and Gump. The federal grand jury never got the details of what the FBI acquired in the raids in the aftermath of the 9/11 attacks.
Abdulqader now works at the Texas Department of Transportation on the NAU superhighway of GW Bush and he still has not been brought to trial for his roles in terrorism.
THE FBI AND CIA USED DOMESTIC TERRORISTS AT ELOHIM CITY

The FBI intervened to stop a raid on Elohim City by the BATF in March 1995 that would have prevented the OKC bombing. The FBI and CIA intentionally protected informants and provocateurs at Elohim City who were involved in the OKC bombing including Andreas Strassmeyer, Dennis Mahon, the spiritual leader Revered Millar, Shawn Kenny and Kevin McCarthy, Dave Hollaway, and Peter and Tony Ward. The Ward brothers will be discussed below. The Rohrabacher report mentions Kevin McCarthy and Strassmeyer but, as noted earlier, left out mention of Mahon, Millar and Hollaway.

Jack Terrell who was in the Philippines at the same time and city as Terry Nichols, could have known and collaborated with fellow CIA operatives, Vincent Petruskie and Dave Hollaway (CIA pilot) who sponsored Strassmeyer in the U.S. and brought him to Elohim City as early as 1989. An FBI 302 report shows that McVeigh called Hollaway a few days before the OKC bombing and that Hollaway gave McVeigh advice on how to rent the Ryder truck and where to park it for optimal damage to the Murrah Building. Like Moore and Strassmeyer, Hollaway worked for the FBI in militias, the last occurrence being as an FBI negotiator at the Montana Freeman standoff in 1996.

The Rohrabacher report describes but does not name a man that Jeff Davis saw in McVeigh’s room at the Dreamland Motel in Kansas when Davis delivered Chinese food to the room. That man is likely either Peter Ward or his brother Tony who lived at Elohim City. The FBI sketch artist did a sketch of the man with Jeff Davis and it is shown in Boylans book, Portraits of Guilt. The sketch of the man very closely resembles Peter Ward. The FBI bailed Peter Ward out of jail in Medford, Oregon in 1998 when he became involved in a car theft case.
AVOIDING CIVIL AND CRIMINAL LIABILITY FOR PROVOCATION, FOREKNOWLEDGE AND NEGLIGENCE

Perhaps bureaucrats and leaders in the FBI, CIA and Justice Department did not cooperate with Rohrabacher’s investigation to avoid the criminal, civil, personal and political liability of having provoked and foreknown but not taken precautions to forewarn, preempt or stop the OKC bombing, particularly at Elohim City where the FBI called off the BATF raid. The U.S. Prosecutor Beth Wilkinson admitted to Federal Judge Matsch and defense attorney Stephen Jones during a November 1996 preliminary hearing that the entire federal family of federal judges, U.S. Marshals and FBI agents in OKC had been forewarned of an attack against the Murrah Building as the result of a fatwa issued connected to incidents during the 1993 WTC bombing trial.

These preliminary hearing court transcripts and the FindLaw website link for the transcripts was offered to Rohrabacher’s chief of staff Richard Dyksma in 2005. Dyksma refused to accept even the FindLaw link to the court transcripts.

The federal family took this threat warning more seriously than the average bomb threats called in because FBI agents stayed out of Murrah and OKC Federal Judge Wayne Ally stayed home and had his grandchildren kept out of the Murrah day care center. Judge Ally gave an interview to his hometown newspaper, the Oregonian, describing the actions he took after he received a forewarning. The parents of those killed and injured in the day care center and those civilians killed at Murrah would really have wanted a warning like the one the federal family got.

On March 22, 1995 the Newark, New Jersey Star-Ledger reported that:

"U.S. law enforcement authorities have obtained information that Islamic terrorists may be planning suicide attacks against federal courthouses and government installations in the United States… The disclosure was made in the confidential memorandum issued by the U.S. Marshals Service in Washington calling for stepped-up security at federal facilities throughout the nation…. The Star-Ledger has learned that U.S. law enforcement officials have received a warning that a “fatwa”….has been issued against federal authorities as a result of an incident during the trial last year of four persons in the bombing of the World Trade Center in New York [1993 WTC attack].”

Yousef Bodansky, the staff director for the House Task Force on Terrorism and Unconventional Warfare had warned the Task Force Chairman in intelligence memos of a possible attack on the Murrah Federal Building starting in February 1995 and going through April 1995. The memos indicated the attack was sponsored by Islamic terrorists who had recruited “two lily whites”, which is believed to be a reference to McVeigh and Nichols. Bodansky also wrote memos containing intelligence that showed the FBI and local law enforcement knew the second in command for AlQaeda and a leader of Egyptian Islamic Jihad, Dr. Ayman Zawahiri, had been in OKC at the time of the OKC bombing.
GARY D. HUNT KNEW A PLOT AND SOME PLAYERS

But when it comes to complicity and failure by the FBI, DOJ and CIA, it is even worse than the FBI using just domestic provocateurs at Elohim City. Elohim City was created and used by the FBI and CIA as the nexus of white supremacist, Christian Identity and militia terrorists with Iraqi backed Islamic terrorists aided by Ishan Barbouti, Dennis Mahon, Menepta, and the “K” and “W” couples living immediately next door to Elohim City and at the AlFuqra training center at Talihina.

Members of the white supremacist movement, Christian Identity, lived at and visited Elohim City and knew McVeigh. Gary D. Hunt was a member of Christian Identity who took investigative reporter J.D. Cash to Elohim City for introductions in 1995 after the OKC bombing. Gary D. Hunt sent out a fax the day of the Oklahoma City bombing that praised the bombing as revenge for Branch Davidian children killed at the 1993 Waco, Texas siege and for Iraqi children killed by U.S. forces in Iraq during the first Gulf War of 1991. A copy of the Gary D. Hunt fax was turned over to the OKC police Department and FBI in 1996.

Gary Hunt communicated with McVeigh in prison. During the Waco siege Hunt was a negotiator between the FBI, BATF and the Branch Davidian leader David Koresh. McVeigh visited Waco after the siege and publicly called for revenge for what happened to the children at the Waco siege. McVeigh said in some of his TV interviews that the OKC bombing was to avenge the deaths of children killed at Waco but also TO Avenge THE DEATHS OF CHILDREN KILLED IN THE FIRST GULF WAR WITH IRAQ. This is the same substantive explanation that Gary Hunt used in the fax he sent out on April 19, 1995.

Hunt’s fax on April 19, 1995, the statements by McVeigh, and his associations with Christian Identity members like those who lived at Elohim City strongly suggest Gary Hunt at least knew beforehand the reasons for the bombing plot and some of the players at Elohim City who collaborated for the bombing- white supremacists and perhaps even Iraqi and Islamic terrorists. Gary Hunt’s favorite phrase to explain this was to say these groups believed that “ the enemy of my enemy is my friend.” Many white supremacist and Iraqis and Muslims both hated their common and publicly avowed enemies Jews, Israel and the U.S. government.

If Gary Hunt knew of an OKC bombing plot, or the reasons for it beforehand, and since he knew some of its players before the OKC bombing, why was he not charged like McVeigh’s Kingman, Arizona neighbor, Michael Fortier, for not reporting what he knew to authorities? Was Gary Hunt an FBI or BATF informant or provocateur?

Witness, bombing survivor and Murrah Building employee Jane Graham, places Gary Hunt inside the Murrah Building on the morning of the OKC bombing. Witnesses at the Grand Continental Motel in OKC place Gary Hunt in OKC for several weeks before the bombing. Witnesses at a gas station near the Murrah Building place Hunt and his Native American (Indian) companion driving a gray van and working on construction for two weeks before the bombing. The FBI confiscated at this same gas station a surveillance camera film showing McVeigh and another man at the gas station with an old brown pickup. A witness also saw the Native American companion with McVeigh in Guthrie Oklahoma. A Native American Indian was with McVeigh in the Murrah Building when they visited VA psychologist Dr. Paul Heath around April 7, 1995, with Michael Fortier. The Native American companion and Hunt had negotiated several years earlier at a New York Indian reservation standoff with federal authorities concerning cigarette taxes.

Witnesses, bombing survivors and Murrah employees, Ruth Schwab and Jane Graham, also saw suspicious men in the Murrah parking garage with blueprints for over a week. The men are suspected of trying to plant explosives in Murrah. One of these men wore cowboy boots like Gary Hunt. The sighting was at the same time that other witnesses place Hunt and his Native American Indian companion at the gas station near Murrah dressed for construction. Around the same period witness Dolores Watson spoke with McVeigh in the Murrah parking garage around April 10, 1995, and at the time McVeigh was with another man who meets the description of Iraqi suspect Al Hussaini Hussaini.

Tom E. Hunt was head of Federal Protective Services at the Federal Court House near the Murrah Building. Tom Hunt said that construction was going on inside the Murrah Building before the OKC bombing. This could have been the construction that Gary Hunt and his companion may have worked on if they tried to gain access to the Murrah Building. Tom Hunt also said that he detained two men in downtown OKC after the bombing that met the description of Gary Hunt and his companion. Tom Hunt said that the FBI told him that the two men very closely resembled Gary Hunt and his companion. However, the two men Tom Hunt detained turned out to be maintenance engineers, Gary Paine and Harvey D. Norris, for the Journal Record Building immediately north of the Murrah Building. Harvey D. Norris, had been on the roof of the Journal Record Building at the moment of the bombing and was nearly blown off by the blast.

If Jane Graham and the other witnesses are correct, Gary D. Hunt was in OKC and at the Murrah Building the morning of the bombing and may have earlier tried to plant explosives there.

Gary Hunt’s alibi for the OKC bombing was not corroborated. Gary Hunt tried but failed to get John Stadtmiller (associated with a Texas militia) to provide an alibi that Hunt was attending a gun show in Orlando, Florida on the day of the OKC bombing. Hunt traveled between Ft. Lauderdale, Orlando and Broward, Florida to Phoenix, Arizona (as a surveyor) and, like CIA provocateur Roger Moore, met with and worked with militia leaders in Montana, Texas, Florida, Arizona, etc. Hunt had a newsletter "Outpost of Freedom" for militia members. The Elohim City friend of McVeigh was German national named Andreas Strassmeyer. Strassmeyer was also a member of the Texas Reserve Militia. Hunt, Moore and Stadtmiller all had been associated with Texas militia groups at the time of the OKC bombing.
The Clinton, FBI, and DOJ “Fix” : Michael Fortier’s Proffer Agreement

Michael Fortier and his wife Lorie were very close associates of McVeigh and Nichols in Kingman, Arizona and they were knowledgeable of the OKC bomb plot. Fortier knew many details of the OKC bombing plot and the others involved, both domestic and foreign, white supremacists, bank robbers, Christian Identity and Islamic terrorists.

Fortier confessed of knowing in advance of the commission of a crime, the OKC bombing, without informing federal authorities before it happened. Fortier was sentenced based on his confession and the plea bargain he accepted but he was not formally convicted by a trial.

Michael Fortier was released on January 20, 2006 from federal prison after serving less time than sentenced (12 years) for his role in the OKC. He is in the Federal Witness Protection Program and under supervised probation at an unidentified location with his wife Lorie Fortier for at least two years.

Fortier was released early because of good behavior in prison, because his original sentence was reduced for disputed reasons, and because Fortier accepted a proffer, or plea bargain agreement with federal and OK state authorities to avoid federal or OK state trials. The proffer, or plea bargain arranged for Michael and Lorie Fortier to testify for the prosecution against McVeigh and Nichols at federal and OK state trials. Fortier’s wife was given a grant of immunity as part of the Fortier plea bargain arrangement that was made with federal officials and the OK county District attorney, Bob Macy in May 1995.

FBI Deputy Director Danny Coulson writes in his book, No Heroes, that Coulson went to Fortier’s Kingman Arizona residence by April 29, 1995, to deliver to Fortier, a proffer letter agreement, a plea bargain agreement, written by Howard Shapiro, Clinton’s FBI legal advisor liaison in the White House.

To repeat to emphasize the significance:

The proffer deal was written up and delivered to Fortier in Arizona by Coulson from Clinton and Shapiro within less than 2 weeks after the OKC bombing. The “fix” was in.

A few weeks later in May 1995 Fortier met with FBI agent Floyd Zimms in an OKC motel room to finalize, accept the proffer agreement and turn himself in to the FBI.

Fortier’s proffer agreement was made in an unscrupulous manner and for dishonest reasons by the FBI, prosecutors (Justice Department) and Clinton and Shapiro and can be challenged and overturned in court. There is ample precedence in the courts for proffer agreements to be challenged in court especially when the subject of the proffer did not have an attorney present, when false or incomplete representations or warnings were made to the subject with or without his attorney present, or when the government does not comply itself with the terms of the proffer. A proffer designed to “buy” or require Fortier’s silence about what he knows about the OKC bombing can also be overturned in court. See Proffer Letter Agreements—“Watch Your Step” by Robert C. Bonsib FBI, DOJ and OK state authorities knew that Michael Fortier was in OKC with McVeigh at the bombed Murrah Building the day of the bombing, helped McVeigh case the Murrah Building the week before, and tried to buy nitromethane (one of the truck bomb ingredients) in OKC. The FBI, DOJ and OK state authorities knew in detail this extent of Fortier’s involvement BEFORE they finalized a corrupt and illegal plea bargain agreement and grant of immunity with the Fortiers in OKC in May 1995.

Without the federal proffer and plea bargain agreement, Fortier would have been prosecuted for much more serious crimes than just failure to inform authorities about the OKC bombing plot.

An editorial in the Daily Oklahoman and a statement by U.S. prosecutor Eaton Goelman (here is the questionable DOJ conduct again) both said publicly that the plea bargain with Fortier was justified because Fortier’s testimony was needed to convict Terry Nichols. But the newspaper and Goelman’s statements were false. Fortier’s testimony was not needed to convict Nichols.

Nichols already had a well-proven role in the OKC bombing that did not depend on Fortier’s testimony, even though Nichols, unlike Fortier, was not in OKC on the day of the OKC bombing. Much strong evidence capable of convicting Nichols and independent of Fortier’s testimony was presented at federal and OK state trials. This evidence included but was not limited to a receipt for large amounts of ammonium nitrate receipts found in Nichols’ house and drill bits used to steal explosives at a robbed quarry. Federal and OK state authorities also said in court that they knew from surveillance tapes that Terry Nichols had been in OKC before to help McVeigh case the Murrah Building. These same officials also knew that Nichols had been in Newkirk, OK with a Ryder truck and a John Doe (in an FBI public sketch) identified to the FBI and BATF by 3 reliable witnesses and fingerprints. The Newkirk story was reported in part the Arkansas City Traveler newspaper in May 1995.

So, if the Fortier’s testimony was not really needed to convict Nichols, then why did Clinton and Shapiro set up a proffer?

The proffer or plea bargain was really designed to “fix” the OKC bombing case by restricting the Fortier’s so they could not tell all they knew, both publicly and in court, relating to federal and OK officials’ complicity in the OKC bombing. The proffer was designed to “buy” or require Fortier’s silence about what he knows about the OKC bombing and can and should be overturned in court.

Prosecutors and FBI agents withheld the evidence of Fortier’s greater role in order to cover up the federal government’s advance knowledge of and provocation of the OKC bombing. It is ironic that Fortier was sentenced for the very crime that some very hypocritical and criminally corrupt federal authorities and officials are also guilty of:
encouraging and then failing to try and stop the OKC bombing or at least forewarn the public.

OKC bombing victims and family members interviewed about Fortier’s early release complained on local radio and TV that the FBI and DOJ intentionally covered up Fortier’s greater role in the OKC bombing and that Fortier has yet to implicate others involved in the bombing besides Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols, others who are known to the federal government.

If the Fortiers were to talk, they could reveal the names of at least many of the 19 OKC bombing provocateurs that have been identified and who were used to encourage and help McVeigh and Nichols carry out the OKC bombing that killed 169 people including 19 children. Two of these provocateurs, Robert Jacks and Gary Alan Land were also neighbors of Fortier and McVeigh in Kingman, Arizona.

See Protected FBI OKC Bomb Provocateurs, Jacks and Land, Described in Secret Service Surveillance Log. OKC Bombing: Two More of 19 Federal Provocateurs Identified?

A third close neighbor of the Fortiers in Kingman, James Rosencrans, was protected by the FBI and federal and state prosecutors even though the prosecutors knew that Rosencrans was in OKC with Fortier to help McVeigh at least the day before the bombing if not also on the day of the bombing. See FBI Files, Actions Conceal 17 Federal OKC Bombing Provocateurs.

It is also important to note that none of the 19 federal provocateurs were convicted of trying to stop the bombing or forewarn the public, including James Rosencrans. Rosencrans was a known drug dealer and DEA informant and also Fortier’s next-door neighbor, who gave Fortier and McVeigh methamphetamine in exchange for guns stolen from gun dealer Roger Moore in Arkansas. In open court the FBI and prosecutors perjured themselves repeatedly by falsely telling the court and jurors that these stolen guns had financed the OKC bombing, when in fact the FBI and prosecutors knew all along that the proceeds from Midwest bank robberies carried out with Richard Guthrie, McVeigh and with the direct help of FBI informant Shawn Kenny (in the Army at the time!) had been used to finance the bombing.

FBI Deputy Director Danny Coulson writes in his book, No Heroes, that Coulson encountered Rosencrans in late April 1995, brandishing a rife when Coulson had arrived at Fortier’s residence to deliver to Fortier, the proffer, plea bargain agreement.

Instead of being shot for brandishing a rifle at the FBI during Coulson’s visit, Rosencrans was given a red carpet treatment by the FBI and prosecutors in the summer of 1995. They had Rosencrans flown in (with his mother and girlfriend) to testify at the federal grand jury that Rosencrans had sold meth to Fortier and McVeigh-this was reported in the Daily Oklahoman newspaper in OKC. Rosencrans gave the same deceptive, and incomplete testimony before the OK state trial for Terry Nichols in 2004 as Rosencrans did before the federal grand jury in 1995.

It is not likely that prosecutors ever told grand jurors (just as the jurors in the federal and state trials were not told) that a large amount of ammonium nitrate was found dumped in Rosencrans’ back yard as reported by the Arizona Republic newspaper. They likely were not told that Rosencrans was with 2 other FBI provocateurs, Shawn Kenny and Black Muslim Melvin Lattimore (Menepta), and McVeigh’s car at the Travelers Aide next to the Murrah Building on April 18, 1995. And of course they likely were not told of Rosencrans accepting Moore’s guns as payment for the meth sold or given to McVeigh and Fortier.

The reason why I say the grand jurors were likely not told about these matters, is because the federal and OK state trial jurors and defense attorneys were intentionally never told of these matters and the FBI interview evidence of it was intentionally withheld. The prosecutors and FBI would not have wanted Fortier to tell the public in open court about what Fortier might know about the real provocateur roles of Rosencrans, Kenny and Lattimore for the FBI. This is a prime reason for the plea bargain with Fortier to keep all of this out of the courts (during a trial for Fortier) and out of the public eye.

Evidence of Fortier’s greater role in the OKC bombing was criminally withheld from federal and state grand juries and federal and state trials of McVeigh and Nichols. This evidence would very likely have led to a longer sentence for Fortier, but would have risked the raising of questions by jurors and the public about the FBI use of provocateurs and the FBI and prosecutors perjuries.

One fact about Fortier’s greater role was brought up in the OK county grand jury investigating the case, but this fact was withheld in Terry Nichols’ federal and OK state trials:

An OKC hobby store owner, Gary Antene, testified before the OK County grand jury that Fortier and McVeigh came in together at his store the week before the OKC bombing and tried to purchase nitromethane used to power model airplane engines. This account was published in the Daily Oklahoman newspaper. Nitromethane was in fact used to construct the truck bomb used by McVeigh to bomb the Murrah Building. FBI and CIA provocateur Roger Moore sold/gave McVeigh “Kenepak” explosives made with nitromethane and encouraged McVeigh to attack federal buildings. Moore had built nitromethane-powered speedboats in Florida for the DEA/CIA and H W Bush’s business partner, Mr. Aranow at a time and place when Moore had first met McVeigh and John Doe suspect, Jose Padilla.

The hobby store owner’s account demonstrates the more involved role of Fortier in the bombing because of Fortier’s helping McVeigh in OKC trying to find truck bomb components such as nitromethane.

But, Fortier and his wife were in OKC the week before the bombing to do more than help McVeigh assemble components for a truck bomb; they also were in OKC to help case the Murrah Building. The FBI and prosecutors not only knew this before the trials and before the grand juries were held, but they also intentionally suppressed and withheld witness interviews and evidence of it during the trials.

Fortier, his wife and McVeigh and his sister spoke to four employees of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company (OG&E) in OKC the week before the bombing asking directions to the Murrah Building which was nearby in downtown OKC. They left in a car with Arizona tags. The FBI interviewed these witnesses that included Melvin Beall, the security guard, and a 26-year veteran of the OKC police department. Melvin Beall’s story was told several times on OKC’s KTOK news radio station. Beall has publicly provided an affidavit of his account for years (1996-1999) to newsmen, journalists, the FBI, U.S. attorneys and to investigators. Beall had gone several times to his close friend, Ted Richardson, the assistant U.S. attorney in OKC, to complain that nothing was being done by the FBI and prosecutors with the eyewitness accounts of Fortier and his wife helping McVeigh in OKC. Shortly after Beall’s last complaint, Richardson was found dead with a shotgun blast to his chest, an event that occurred during the McVeigh federal trial. FBI interview reports with Beall and the OG&E witnesses were never brought up in federal or OK state trials of Nichols or McVeigh.

The FBI criminally attempted to suppress another witness’ account of seeing McVeigh and Fortier together with a John Doe two weeks before the bombing inside the Murrah Building! Dr. Paul Heath, a bombing survivor, told me, New American magazine editor, William Jasper, and Glenn Wilburn (he lost two grandchildren in the Murrah bombing) that Fortier and McVeigh had come to Heath’s office with a John Doe around 3 pm on a Friday before the bombing asking about jobs and where to apply for jobs inside the Murrah Building. Heath told Wilburn and me that the FBI had pressured Heath to such an extent that Heath said he was going to file a FOIA request to find out if the FBI had smeared him over his story. Heath was angry when he said this and he also recommended that Wilburn file a FOIA request to see if the FBI was also trying to smear and intimidate Wilburn over Wilburn’s investigation efforts.

As KTOK radio news in OKC confirmed it was reported that Fortier was given a ticket by OKC police in OKC for improperly pulling a trailer the week before the OKC bombing. This certainly would have also been well known to the OK county District attorney Bob Macy who also signed off on the plea bargain arrangement with the Fortiers.

A reliable witness and frequent visitor to the Murrah Building, Nancy Cruse, saw McVeigh and Fortier together in OKC a few blocks the Murrah Building about 3-5 minutes after the bombing. Cruse went to the FBI command center on around Monday the first week after the bombing and spoke to an FBI agent about the encounter. Cruse and a gas station owner also spoke a few weeks later to another FBI agent at a gas station not too far from where the witnesses encountered and spoke to Fortier.

Nancy Cruse’s story is vouched for by Martin Cash, a survivor of the OKC bombing who worked in the Veteran Affairs office at the Murrah Building. Cruse visited Martin Cash on several occasions before and right up until the time of the bombing for help on paperwork for veterans benefits. Martin Cash wears a patch over his damaged eye and keeps talks at local meetings in OK. Martin Cash also knew Dr. Paul Heath and confirms Heath’s story that Fortier and McVeigh visited Heath in the Murrah Building on a Friday afternoon around April 7, 1995.

Nancy Cruse claimed both FBI agents would not take notes. The FBI did not offer to have sketches made with the Cruse. Cruse fully described to the FBI what the men (McVeigh and Fortier) were wearing, including baseball caps and Fortier’s windbreaker jacket. The Cruse account about failure to make sketches and take no notes is consistent with witnesses’ accounts at the OKC Travelers Aid and FBI sketch artist Jean Boylan in her book. Boylan wrote that FBI deputy director Coulson told Boylan within less than a month after the bombing not to make additional sketches because Couslon did not want to help the defense.

Nancy Cruse says she told the FBI command center that the first sketch they released was accurate and showed the first man (McVeigh) that she had seen with the second man (Fortier). Cruse also told the FBI command center that the second FBI composite sketch of a John Doe did not look like the second man Cruse had seen. Cruse told the FBI the second man (who was Fortier according to Cruse) had a smaller neck and other features different from the second FBI sketch, features it turns out were features of Michael Fortier. Cruse said she has heard Fortier’s voice on TV and has seen him and is certain it was Fortier Cruse spoke to and saw with McVeigh 3-5 minutes after the Murrah Building was bombed. Cruse says that Fortier told her (when asked by her what had happened) that “someone had just bombed the Murrah Building”. Cruse also does not believe that Fortier’s statement could have been made so soon (during the confusion and smoke of the bombing) and several blocks away unless Fortier already knew and had been involved in the bombing with McVeigh.

The accounts of Melvin Beall, the OG&E witnesses, Dr. Paul Heath and the ticket given to Fortier conclusively demonstrate that Fortier and his wife were in OKC one to two weeks before the bombing to help McVeigh case the Murrah Building. The FBI also knew that Fortier had tried to buy nitromethane in OKC to help blow up the Murrah Building. The FBI knew that a reliable witness, Nancy Cruse, had seen Fortier with McVeigh near the Murrah Building a few minutes after the bombing. The FBI and prosecutors not only knew these things before the plea bargain arrangement with the Fortiers, before trials and before the grand juries were held, but they also intentionally and criminally obstructed justice by intentionally and knowingly entering into a corrupt and illegal plea bargain agreement with the Fortiers under false pretenses and by intentionally suppressing and withholding witnesses’ interviews and evidence of the Fortier’s roles and involvement during the trials and grand jury proceedings.

If Fortier was ever really sincere about deploring federal corruption, will Fortier now prove it by telling us what Fortier knows about the federal government’s use of provocateurs in the OKC bombing?

Now that Fortier is out of prison, will Fortier ever live long enough or have enough courage to tell us about what Fortier knows about the roles of federal provocateurs James Rosencrans, Shawn Kenny, Melvin Lattimore, Roger Moore, Robert Jacks and Gary Allan Land in the OKC bombing?

Why, Fortier might even be able to tell us how much guidance and how many explosives Roger Moore, Ramzy Yousef, Ali Mohammed, Jafar Osman, Andreas Strassmeyer, Dave Hollway gave McVeigh and Nichols for the Iraqis, Al Qaeda, the FBI and CIA. Recall Fortier’s and McVeigh’s quest for nitromethane in OKC the week before the OKC bombing.

The “double jeopardy” guarantee does not apply to Fortier because he never was tried in a trial and because his proffer agreement can be overturned either by his own recantation or by proof of lack of adequate legal representation at the time the proffer was agreed to or by proof false or incomplete representations by the FBI or by prosecutors in obtaining the proffer agreement. The proffer was designed to “buy” or require Fortier’s silence about what he knows about the OKC bombing and can and should be overturned in court. See Proffer Letter Agreements—“Watch Your Step” by Robert C. Bonsib

If Fortier were to talk more publicly about what he knows, he would have to be careful to not make it appear he was recanting (or had lied about) details he told prosecutors or the FBI or else risk cancellation of the proffer agreement and exposure to more prison time. However, anything that Fortier did later say that was not a recantation or a lie could not be used against him.

It can be argued in the courts that the federal and state proffer agreement with Fortier should be overturned because the agreement is invalid in the first place since the agreement contained incomplete, false and misleading information that the FBI and prosecutors already knew was false, incomplete or misleading before they finalized the proffer agreement.

Fortier and his wife’s story also could be compelled by subpoena by Congress, courts or grand juries if his proffer, plea bargain agreement is overturned in court. The grounds for doing this are apparent as presented above. However, the primary intent of this effort would not be to retry Fortier, but instead to require the Fortier’s to testify about what they know.

Congressman Rohrabacher and his investigators explained at length their attempts to interview Terry Nichols and to find and interview Kevin McCarthy for Rohrabacher’s OKC bombing report. McCarthy according to Rohrabacher could not be found even though it is suspected that DOJ or FBI officials would know how to find him. Rohrabacher’s report does not mention any similar efforts to find and interview Michael Fortier who, unlike McCarthy, clearly could be found and was available after his high profile release in OKC in January 2006.

Not tracking down Fortier for an interview is a grave failure as Fortier and his wife, Lorie, were very close associates of McVeigh and Nichols in Kingman, Arizona. Fortier would know many details of the OKC bombing plot and the others involved, both domestic and foreign, white supremacists, bank robbers, Christian Identity and Islamic terrorists. How hard did Rohrabacher try, if at all, to track down and interview Fortier and his wife?

If Rohrabacher and his investigators had really looked deeply into the Fortier matter, they would have learned of an even more powerful example of FBI, Justice Department obstruction, corruption and malfeasance that Rohrabacher had described in his report with respect to other aspects of the OKC bombing case.

If Rohrabacher, President Bush, the FBI, DOJ or the House and Senate Judiciary Committees ever do a follow up on Rohrabacher’s OKC bombing report or do a complete, credible, legitimate investigation of the OKC bombing further, they must look into the Fortier matter. They need to find out what Fortier knows, evaluate FBI and DOJ criminal misconduct in handling Fortier’s proffer agreement, and learn what the DOJ and FBI knew that they did not want Fortier and his wife to talk about.
FALSE ASSERTIONS OF NATIONAL SECURITY

On March 25, 1995 McVeigh defense attorney Stephen Jones filed a request with the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver asking that a Writ of Mandamus be issued directing the Federal government to “produce” to the court and the defense information about the OKC bombing known to U.S. intelligence agencies. Jones’ filing contained specific statements by Philippine undercover agent Edwin Angeles that Terry Nichols had met in the Philippines with Ramzi Yousef and the Abu Sayef cell. A three-judge panel of the Tenth Circuit Court ruled that the federal government should not be required to produce the information on grounds that such a release would be harmful to the national security of the U.S..

As noted in the earlier chapter, “FBI, DIA, CIA, NEGROPONTE TRACKED NICHOLS, IRAQIS, ALQAEDA PLOTS IN PHILIPPINES”, U.S. Ambassador John Negroponte headed a working group in the Philippines in 1994-1995 of CIA, DIA and FBI agents who monitored the activities of the Abu Sayef cell and the activities of Khalid Mohammed and Ramzi Yousef in the cell. These monitored activities would have included the meeting of Terry Nichols and a member of the Arizona militia with Yousef, the cell and its other members. It is also now known that Abdul Murad, a member of the cell, also confirmed Edwin Angeles’ assertions about the cells activities. Murad told federal authorities shortly after the OKC bombing that the “Liberation Army” involved with the cell was responsible.

It is now known that the FBI and Negroponte’s working group learned by March 1995, or even earlier of the plot plans for the 9/11 attacks in the U.S. on the Sears and Trans America Towers, the Pentagon, White House and WTC (this was not just project Bojinka) from the computer in Ramzi Yousef’s Philippine apartment. A letter from Khalid Mohammed to a Mr. Siddiqy in the U.S. was found on this computer’s hard drive requesting Mr. Siddiqy’s help in the U.S. Recall that Anas and Asad Siddiqy were involved in the 1993 WTC bombing and were with McVeigh in OKC on April 19, 1995, arrested and then released because of intentional disinformation from dual FBI and CIA agent Floyd Zimms.

Congressman Dana Rohrabacher’s OKC bombing report even acknowledges that plans to hijack airliners in the U.S. and fly them into U.S. building was part of the plot discovered in the Philippines in early 1994 by Federal intelligence agents:

“They [Yousef, Murad and Khan] were working on their next two part plan, Project Bojinka: a conspiracy to place bombs on twelve American airliners which would explode over the Pacific Ocean, potentially killing hundreds of Americans, and to overtake the cockpits [HIJACK] of American airliners and crash them into buildings [in the U.S.] such as the CIA headquarters in Langley, Virginia.”

U.S. prosecutor Beth Wilkinson did admit in a November 1996. preliminary pre-trial hearing with Federal Judge Matsch and attorney Stephen Jones that the Federal government had had prior warning of the OKC bombing and had warned the entire federal family in OKC in advance of the bombing. This is the information that Rohrabacher’s Chief of Staff Richard Dyskma refused to receive from me in 1995 and it is not referred to in Rohrabacher’s report. These warnings described by Wilkinson were taken seriously because Federal Judge Wayne Ally stayed home and kept his grandchildren out of the Murrah Building day care center for over two weeks before the bombing. Please refer to the earlier chapter “AVOIDING CIVIL AND CRIMINAL LIABILITY FOR PROVOCATION, FOREKNOWLEDGE AND NEGLIGENCE”.

Yousef Bodansky, the staff director for the House Task Force on Terrorism and Unconventional Warfare had warned the Task Force Chairman in intelligence memos of a possible attack on the Murrah Federal Building starting in February 1995. and going through April 1995. Bodansky also wrote memos containing intelligence that showed the FBI and local law enforcement knew the second in command for Al Qaeda and a leader of Egyptian Islamic Jihad, Dr. Ayman Zawahiri, had been in OKC at the time of the OKC bombing.

The evidence described above demonstrates that Federal officials did have foreknowledge of the OKC bombing plot and the 9/11-attack plot. Contrary to their ruling, it was more in the interest of national security for the Tenth Circuit Court panel to have ordered a Writ of Mandamus to require the release of information known, but withheld, about the OKC bombing. The national security of the U.S. would have been better served because the release of this information in 1997 would very likely have averted the 9/11 attacks. It is very likely that the ruling by the Tenth Circuit panel was based on misrepresentations and withholding from the judges on the panel the true risk or nature of the information and its true relevance to national security. Furthermore, what national security interests are still served after the convictions of McVeigh and Nichols and the 9/11 attacks to continue withhold all the information learned by U.S. intelligence and U.S. ambassador John Negroponte in advance of the attacks?

Federal Judge Matsch ordered that surveillance tapes and other FBI evidence and files from the OKC bombing be sealed and blocked from disclosure. Matsch based his ruling on the same questionable assertion to protect national security used by the Tenth Circuit when they overruled Stephen Jones’ request for a Writ of Mandamus to require release of U.S. intelligence information on the OKC bombing.

OKC attorney Mike Johnston won a ruling from OKC Federal Judge Alley sharply critical of the FBI, OKC bombing trial presiding federal judge Robert Matsch, and the DOJ for their intentional refusal to turn over ALL surveillance tapes and FBI files relevant to the OKC bombing. Many of these tapes were never turned over to the defense at the trials. Johnston’s court filing offers strong evidence that the tapes show McVeigh with John Doe participants in OKC that are believed to include FBI informants and provocateurs. Reliable witnesses like John Morris Kuper gave sworn testimony of seeing McVeigh in the accompaniment of a John Doe in front of surveillance cameras in OKC known to have been working and loaded with film. One tape may also show evidence of multiple explosions during the bombing of the Murrah Building.
The ruling won by Mike Johnston further demonstrates Federal Courts and FBI stonewalling on OKC bombing based on false assertions of national security grounds.

Judge Ally’s ruling severely criticized the U.S. Justice Department's conduct in resisting a formal legal request to make public the FBI's secret files about the 1995 bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building. Judge Ally criticized the (Justice) department's several written arguments against disclosure as "patently insufficient," "ambiguous," and "cursory." Alley criticized the Justice Department's court conduct in its efforts to maintain "its shroud of secrecy." Ally called the department's conduct "shoddy" and "unacceptable." Ally said, however, that the Denver judge (Matsch) is "the only federal judge who can alter the existing limits on the FBI's disclosure of its (bombing case) records."

See OKC BOMBING SURVEILLANCE TAPE CONFIRMED AND CORROBORATED

Furthermore, what national security interests are still served after the convictions of McVeigh and Nichols for the U.S. government to continue to withhold FBI files and records and all the surveillance tapes possibly showing John Does and explosions associated with the OKC bombing?

ABC’s “20/20” produced a three-part investigative documentary on the OKC bombing, the first part of which was aired nationally in February, 1997. The producer for the documentary was Don Thrasher. Retired L.T. Colonel Roger Charles was the lead investigator for the documentary.

After the first part of the documentary was aired, the Clinton White House called ABC top management and demanded that the other two parts of the documentary not be shown. The Clinton White House falsely claimed that airing the other two parts would HARM NATIONAL SECURITY.

Roger Charles soon appeared on the Don Imus TV program to publicly complain about the “spiking” of the remaining two parts of the documentary. ABC fired Roger Charles shortly thereafter.

One item that was to have been shown in the second part of the documentary were interviews Roger Charles conducted with Army recruiters in the Murrah Building who had seen McVeigh with John Does in the Murrah Building. Two of the Army recruiters, Marilyn Travis and Arlene Blanchard, told Charles and 20/20 that within 74 hours after the OKC bombing, the FBI and Army officials threatened the recruiters with court martial on NATIONAL SECURITY grounds if the recruiters publicly revealed information about the John Does they had seen with McVeigh.

The FBI intentionally did not use their famed sketch artist Jean Boylan (who was in town) to make sketches of these John Does seen by the Army recruiters.
These actions of the White House, the Army, and FBI and their falsely asserting national security grounds toward ABC and the recruiters has only fueled speculation that the John Does seen with McVeigh by the recruiters were informants and/or provocateurs working for the U.S. government. Some of these John Does may well be on the surveillance tapes confiscated by the FBI and sealed by Federal Judge Matsch under false assertions of protecting national security.
THE “REASONS” WHY ROHRABACHER MADE HIS OKC BOMBING INVESTIGATION AND REPORT DEFICIENT

See here and here. Rohrabacher’s OKC Bombing Report

Some investigative journalists have suggested that Rohrabacher’s OKC bomb report was intentionally deficient. Douglas Hagmann of the Northeast Intelligence Network wrote an article about this entitled “Investigative Reporter Exposes Congressional Whitewash of the OKC Bombing Report”. The reporter Hagmann interviewed for his article was OKC reporter Jayna Davis, author of the book, The Third Terrorist. Hagmann wrote:

"As a 21-year veteran investigator and based on my extensive review of the evidence secured, authenticated and possessed by Ms. Davis in comparison with investigative results of Congressman Dana Rohrabacher, the congressman couldn't investigate his way out of a wet paper bag.”

The January 22, 2007, issue of The New American magazine reported that the survivors and family members of the OKC bombing victims were dismayed at what the magazine called a “half-hearted (at best)” effort by the Rohrabacher investigation and the decision by Rohrabacher to release the report during the worst possible news cycle. They questioned why Rohrabacher would release his report the day after Christmas after announcing its release only the day before Christmas, when there would be little news coverage or public attention to the report. The New American magazine extensively investigated and wrote about the OKC bombing for over a decade.

Rohrabacher had publicly announced his intentions to investigate the OKC bombing almost two years before his report came out. In 2006, Rohrabacher had also scheduled hearings on the OKC bombing for September 2006, but kept delaying them. Once the November 2006 elections gave the Democrats a majority in Congress, Rohrabacher proclaimed he would no longer hold hearings. The press secretary for U.S. Senator James Inhofe from Oklahoma told me in September 2006, that Rohrabacher and Inhofe had held a series of closed-door meetings in late summer 2006, on what to do about how to handle the OKC bombing investigation and hearings of Rohrabacher.

Rohrabacher faulted the FBI and DOJ for lack of help and cooperation in locating some key witnesses for his report and his hearing. But Rohrabacher did locate other key witnesses including for example Dr. Samir Khalil, Jennifer McVeigh, McVeigh’s sister. Rohrabacher was told how to and/or knew how to find and talk to Mujahid Menepta and Michael Fortier.

Rohrabacher also claimed he did not believe he could enforce subpoenas that would have been issued by his own committee to compel witness testimony. Rohrabacher did not describe this “pseudo” subpoena problem in his report nor publicly address the need to correct the problem for further Congressional investigations. Instead, Rohrabacher blamed the lack of completeness of his OKC bombing report and failure to hold hearings on stonewalling by the FBI and DOJ and lack of time and resources for himself and his investigators despite having two years to do his investigation.

Rohrabacher assertions for the deficiencies in his investigation, his report and failure to hold hearings ring hollow when one considers that Rohrabacher had two years to investigate, did not try to subpoena the key witnesses he did find or knew how to find, and intentionally left out and made no mention of hard documented evidence from his own staff director for the House Task Force Director on Terrorism, Yousef Bodansky.

It appears that Rohrabacher’s staff was ordered to give the Congressman the excuse or cover of “plausible deniability” by their refusal to accept valid federal court documents and website links to the documents showing federal foreknowledge and forewarning of the OKC bombing. These court documents and federal forewarnings were not brought up in Rohrabacher’s report.

The U.S. Prosecutor Beth Wilkinson admitted to Federal Judge Matsch and defense attorney Stephen Jones during a November 1996 preliminary hearing that the entire federal family of federal judges a, U.S. Marshals and FBI agents in OKC had been forewarned of an attack against the Murrah Building as the result of a fatwa issued connected to incidents during the 1993 WTC bombing trial.

These preliminary hearing court transcripts and the FindLaw website link for the transcripts was offered to Rohrabacher’s chief of staff Richard Dyksma in 2005. Dyksma refused to accept even the FindLaw link to the court transcripts.

However, another attempt to give Rohrabacher the cover of “plausible deniability” failed when his staff investigator Greg McCarthy, was given by a member of the intelligence community 40 pages of memos, documents and pictures (which had also been given to the FBI) concerning a criminal business and a terrorist cell still operating in OK that was directly involved in the OKC bombing and the 1993 WTC bombing with Mujahid Menepta and Dr. Samir Khalil. When pressed about the documents, McCarthy claimed that they had either been lost or thrown away. Nevertheless, the documents were made available again to Rohrabacher who then read them and then exclaimed to a reliable source, “I had never been told about Menepta before.”

Evidence that Rohrabacher received these documents is in his report because the report does describe some of the evidence in the documents, namely that a man with the name of Dr Samir Khalil is on the list of unindicted co-conspirators for the 1993 WTC bombing. Much of the information in this book about Menepta and Dr. Khalil was given to Rohrabacher and Greg McCarthy in the form of these documents and by discussion with them about details and what the documents reveal.

The inexcusable reasons why Rohrabacher left out information he was given and knows, about Menepta and other Islamic terrorists is presented below in the subchapter, “Rohrabacher and Negroponte Had Advanced Details of Plots for OKC Bombing and 9/11 Style Attack.” Information and evidence about Menepta’s roles in the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombings and 9/11 attacks was presented earlier in the chapter “FBI AND JUSTICE DEPARTMENT PROTECT THEIR PROVOCATEURS.”
Curiously, Greg McCarthy’s name was left off Rohrabacher’s report and no mention of Menepta or the OKC terror cell was made in the report. McCarthy had been an aide for Senator Inhofe in the period 1998-1999 during the time he and Inhofe rebuffed and ignored the serious attempts of Pentagon Terrorism advisor Jesse Clear to inform Inhofe and the Senate Intelligence committee legal counsel (Joan Vail Grimson) of federal knowledge of the OKC bombing and those involved. In March 2005 I specifically informed and warned Rohrabacher’s Chief of Staff, Richard Dyksma, and his California office assistant, Kathleen Hollingsworth, about the problems with Greg McCarthy when McCarthy worked for Inhofe.

Rohrabacher and his investigators had ample time to but intentionally did not adequately follow up on and investigate the FBI documents and legal briefs requested from and given to them by Salt Lake City attorney Jesse Trentadue. These documents clearly implicate the FBI and FBI and DOJ protected provocateurs Shawn Kenny, Andreas Strassmeyer, and Dave Hollaway in the OKC bombing and Rohrabacher knows it. These provocateurs and Trentadue’s documents were intentionally left out of Rohrabacher’s report even though the report discusses an associate of Shawn Kenny, Kevin McCarthy. Kevin McCarthy was also an FBI informant who like, Kenny lived at Elohim City, was a Midwest bank robber who helped McVeigh. Rohrabacher claimed in his report that he could not locate Kevin McCarthy. But no mention of Shawn Kenny was made in the report.

Rohrabacher told the public in his report that there are many unanswered questions that remain of who was involved in the OKC bombing. He left the public with the impression that the public may never get to know the answers to these questions particularly because of what Rohrabacher described as lack of interest and stonewalling by the DOJ and FBI. In an interview about his report with World Net Daily "Victims' families demand action on 'foreign link' Rohrabacher shifted responsibility by saying that it now up to Oklahoma Senators Inhofe and Tom Colburn to “press the administration to order the FBI to further the investigation.” Yet Rohrabacher knows Inhofe and Colburn who will likely do nothing adequate any further. Rohrabacher also knows Inhofe and Colburn have done nothing all these years with even more details of the OKC bombing than in Rohrabacher’s report given to Inhofe and Colburn by victims, family members of victims, investigators, attorneys and the Pentagon terror advisor Jesse Clear.

Another indication of Rohrabacher’s guile and maneuvering is that he did not mention nor publicly refer his investigation and report to his fellow Republican Congresswoman from Oklahoma, Mary Fallin, who was the Lieutenant Governor of Oklahoma at the time of the OKC bombing.

Rohrabacher is a close, long time personal friend of Presidents GW and HW Bush. Rohrabacher could also press the OKC bombing case with President Bush if Rohrabacher really wanted to. In the interview published by World Net Daily, Rohrabacher also said that President Bush was too bogged down to have read Rohrabacher’s OKC bombing report. Yet Rohrabacher did not think Bush was too bogged down for Rohrabacher himself to publicly and rightly press Bush (before and after his report came out) on Lou Dobbs TV program and in newspaper interviews to give pardon to two imprisoned border patrol agents.

Rohrabacher is also a close, long time supporter of the Director of National Intelligence, John Negroponte, who as U.S. ambassador to the Philippines learned of the OKC bombing and 9/11 style plots in 1994-1995. This interview shows Dana Rohrabacher is a staunch supporter and ally of Negroponte “Hardball” Interview of Rohrabacher by Chris Matthews.

Why did Rohrabacher not reveal all he was provided, knows and believes about what happened in the OK bombing? Why did Rohrabacher and his staff purposely avoid trying to even receive and adequately investigate vital information on the OKC bombing for over two years? why does Rohrabacher himself not press the administration to have the FBI further investigate the OKC bombing? why has Rohrabacher not referred the matter of criminal obstruction of his investigation by the FBI and DOJ to the House and Senate Judiciary Committees who have oversight of the FBI and DOJ? I called Rohrabacher’s staff twice after the report came out and asked that Rohrabacher make these referrals and also talk to President Bush. So far Rohrabacher has done none of these things Rohrabacher and Negroponte Had Advanced Details of Plots for OKC Bombing and 9/11 Style Attack.

It appears that Rohrabacher has only being going through the motions to give the false impression that he did all he could do. The rest of this chapter will explore the proposition that Rohrabacher did not and will not adequately pursue these matters further because a full investigation would expose Rohrabacher’s and John Negroponte’s own personal failures, deceptions and connections to Islamic terrorists—all reasons associated directly with what Rohrabacher and his friend John Negroponte knew before April 19, 1995 about the OKC bombing and the 9/11 style plot.

A Freedom of Information Act request to the U.S. State Department yielded an “UNCLASSIFIED” document showing that Rohrabacher held talks April 22-24, 1995, just three days after the OKC bombing, in the Philippines with Philippine President Ramos and Philippine National Security Director Almonte. The State Department document is comprised of the official summary of the “meeting minutes” of the talks. When Rohrabacher held these talks Rohrabacher was Vice Chairman of the House Task Force on Terrorism and Unconventional Warfare. These excerpts from the U.S. State Department document confirm that Rohrabacher, Negroponte, the FBI, CIA and DIA already knew much (not publicly or commonly known at the time) about the Abu Sayef cell, its members Ramzi Yousef and Abdul Murad, the 1993 WTC bombing, the OKC bombing and even the 9/11 style plot, certainly by April 22, 1995, if not much earlier:

“…Rep. Rohrabacher made it a point to express gratitude to the Philippine government for its good cooperation with the U.S. in tracking and apprehending terrorists implicated in the [1993] WTC bombing and in preventing the assassination of the Pope….”

“…Rohrabacher expressed gratitude to President Ramos for the Philippine government’s superb work and cooperation with the U.S. in combating terrorism: tipping off the U.S. to Ramzi Yousef’s presence in Pakistan [fled to Pakistan after the fire in his Philippine apartment in January 1995], apprehending and turning over to the U.S. Abdul Hakim Murad, and averting an attack on the Pope…”

“Referring to the capture of Yousef and Murad, President Ramos extolled [to Rohrabacher] the anti-terrorism expertise of GOP authorities [even though Clinton, a Democrat was President of the U.S. at the time]…”

The OKC bombing plot information may have been learned by Philippine and U.S. authorities in the Philippines soon after the fire Ramzi Yousef’s apartment in January 2005 when the authorities examined Yousef’s computer. It is known that these authorities learned of the 9/11 style plot plans on Ramzi Yousef’s computer and Rohrabacher makes mention of this fact in his OKC bombing report. But this OKC bombing plot information may have been known even earlier in 1994 because Philippine authorities and Negroponte’s working group had infiltrated and were tracking the plot plans of the Abu Sayef cell of Ramzi Yousef using DIA, FBI, and CIA agents and Philippine government undercover agent Edwin Angeles.

As noted earlier in this book, Negroponte had been involved with Ramzi Yousef and Ishan Barbouti even before the Philippines when the CIA and Negroponte, as Deputy U.S. National Security Counsel Advisor, had assisted Yousef and Barbouti in acquiring U.S. WMDS in the U.S. to transfer to Iraq.

It is very likely Rohrabacher learned of this OKC bombing plot information from Philippine authorities (via President Ramos and Philippine National Security Director Almonte) and from his friend the U.S. ambassador in the Philippines, John Negroponte during Rohrabacher’s visit to the Philippines April 22-24, 1995.

But Rohrabacher would certainly have learned of the OKC bombing plot connections of the Abu Sayef cell and Ramzi Yousef and Terry Nichols by early summer 1995, from the publicized assertions of Abu Sayef cell member Abdul Hakim Murad, the man Rohrabacher thanked Philippine Ramos for apprehending during Rohrabacher’s talks with Ramos. The Philippine government undercover agent in the Abu Sayef cell, Edwin Angeles, did in fact publicly say Angeles was present when Terry Nichols met with Ramzi Yousef and the Abu Sayef cell. But Angeles also vouched for Murad’s assertions that the Palestinian “Liberation Army” was involved in the OKC bombing.

In the U.S. State Department document President Ramos discusses with Rohrabacher the Palestinian terrorists that came to the Philippines under a chapter of the talks with Rohrabacher entitled “Local Muslim Extremists”:

“The President [Ramos] mentioned that Philippine police were questioning six aliens from the Middle East, including three Jordanians and two Palestinians, who had been arrested recently.”
Recall as noted earlier in this book that Yousef Bodansky, the staff director for the House Task Force on Terrorism and Unconventional Warfare, had warned the Task Force Chairmen in intelligence memos of a possible attack on the Murrah Federal Building starting in February 1995 and going through April 1995. These memos contained intelligence showing Islamic terrorists connected to the 1993 WTC bombing and the Philippines (Ramzi Yousef, etc) were plotting for an attack using “two lily whites” (McVeigh and Nichols?) in the U.S. against federal buildings including the Murrah Federal Building. Bodansky also wrote memos containing intelligence that showed the FBI and local law enforcement knew the second in command for AlQaeda and a leader of Egyptian Islamic Jihad, Dr. Ayman Zawahiri, had been in OKC at the time of the OKC bombing. When Bodansky was director of the Task Force and sent out these intelligence memos, the House Task Force Chairman was James Saxton of New Jersey and the Vice Chairman was Congressman Dana Rohrabacher.

BEFORE his meeting with Philippine President Ramos, Rohrabacher already had the benefit of all the intelligence information contained in Bodansky’s memos to Rohrabacher concerning terrorists like Ramzi Yousef plotting a possible attack on the Murrah Federal Building and other U.S. federal buildings. Rohrabacher also likely had consulted with his close friend and U.S. Ambassador in the Philippines, John Negroponte. As also noted earlier in this book, Negroponte had, along with Philippine authorities, been monitoring the Abu Sayef cell, Abdul Murad and Ramzi Yousef in 1994 through early 1995, according to Sam Karmilowicz, the senior U.S. State Department security officer at the U.S. Philippine embassy. Counterpunch published an interview "Ex-State Department Security Officer Charges Pre-9/11 Cover-Up in March 2006 with Sam Karmilowicz who asserted John Negroponte gained knowledge of the 9/11 style plot while Negroponte was U.S. ambassador to the Philippines from 1993 to 1996.

Yet Rohrabacher intentionally left out of his report references to Bodansky’s intelligence memos to Rohrabacher, Saxton and the Task Force. Suddenly, Bodansky became “too unreliable” and “too politically hot” for Rohrabacher to include even mention of Bodansky’s memos in Rohrabacher’s OKC bomb report after all these years of Bodansky’s “reliable” service on the Task Force. Did Rohrabacher not bring up Bodansky’s memos at least in part because Rohrabacher did not want to publicly expose what Rohrabacher, Negroponte, the DIA, CIA and FBI knew about the OKC bombing and the 9/11 style plots back in April 22, 1995 or even earlier?

Here is an excerpt of what the Speaker of the Philippine House De Venecia told Rohrabacher during the talks with President Ramos:

“He [De Venecia] worried that South American drug traffickers were redirecting narcotics through Asian “soft spots” like the Philippines.”

These remarks by De Venecia add support to federal informant Cary Gagan’s allegations that South American drug lords worked with Islamic terrorists in employing Gagan to deliver explosive powders in bottles and a mixer to Junction City, Kansas, for the OKC bombing. The Islamic terrorists Gagan spoke of included Omar (Samir) Khalil tied to the 1993 WTC bombers, Ramzi Yousef and the Abu Sayef terrorists in the Philippines. Note that the book that Ramzi Yousef and Terry Nichols both used in the Philippines made mention of explosive powders possibly similar to what Gagan delivered in bottles to Kansas, The Chemistry of Powders and Explosives. For more on Cary Gagan, see the chapter “IT STARTED WITH THE 1993 WTC BOMBING”.

It is highly unethical and suspicious that Rohrabacher would intentionally leave out of Rohrabacher’s OKC Bombing report any mention of the substance of Rohrabacher’s talks with Philippine President Ramos, National Security Director Almonte, and House Speaker De Venecia on April 22-24, 1995 concerning their discussions of the OKC bombing, Ramzi Yousef, Abdul Murad, Palestinian terrorists and South American drug lords that may have been involved in the OKC bombing.

But what I reveal next in this book relating to the 9/11 style plot, makes Rohrabachers’s conduct, deceptions, deficiencies, failures and deliberate silence in his report become even much more questionable, unethical and potentially sinister.

Here is some more of what Rohrabacher told Philippine House Speaker De Venecia according to the State Department document:

“Rohrabacher observing that he had fought briefly on the side of the Mujahidin in Afghanistan, traced some of the problems with terrorism in the Philippines to Pakistan. He told De Venecia he was working to avert a “disaster” that would come about when terrorists in the Afghanistan/Pakistan region began cooperating internationally, backed by vast profits from poppy-based narcotics trafficking.”

The exchange between Ramos and Rohrabacher about Rohrabacher’s knowledge of Afghanistan drug trafficking is extremely significant. Rohrabacher contacted the office of Condi Rice the day BEFORE 9/11 to warn Rice that Rohrabacher believed an attack in the U.S. by AlQaeda was imminent based on Rohrabacher’s specific knowledge of the situation in Afghanistan and also on his knowledge of what Negroponte, the DIA, FBI and CIA and perhaps even Yousef Bodansky had learned about the 9/11 style plot of Ramzi Yousef and Khaled Mohammed in the Philippines in 1994-1995. Rohrabacher made a speech about this on the floor of the House in 2004.

Rohrabacher said in a 60 minute speech to Congress on Jun 21, 2004, that he tried to warn Condi Rice of an imminent attack by AlQaeda on the U.S. attack the week of September 10 and 11, 2001. Rohrabacher claimed 9/11 was the “dramatic failure of policy and people.” Yet Rohrabacher did not even try to testify about this during the joint Senate and House hearings on 9/11 or to the 9/11 Commission. Here is an excerpt of Rohrabacher’s speech from his own website (the full speech can be viewed at the link provided):

“Then just a few days before 9/11, the news came that Commander Masood had been murdered in Afghanistan. I felt as if I had lost a close friend….. It dawned on me why Masood had been assassinated. America was going to be attacked. It would be so monstrous that bin Laden's gang in Afghanistan wanted to cut us off from a means of counterattacking them in their base of operations in Afghanistan. We would have turned to Masood if we were attacked. That is what we would have done, and they were cutting us off from turning to Masood, but now Masood was dead.”

“Perhaps his death was a signal to set the planned attack on our country in motion. So on September 10, after I had figured that out a few days before 9/11, on September 10 I tried to alert anyone and everyone who would listen to me. I tried to give my warnings of an imminent terrorist attack. A few people listened as a courtesy, but for most people their eyes simply glazed over as I tried to warn them…”

“Undeterred, I called the White House and asked for an emergency appointment with Condoleezza Rice in order to warn of an impending terrorist attack, a major attack. Her office apologized that she was incredibly busy that day but she respected my opinion and would see me the next day at 3:00 p.m. The next day was 9/11…”

At some point Rohrabacher learned of the plot discovered on Ramzi Yousef’s computer to hijack U.S. airlines and fly them into U.S. buildings including the CIA headquarters at Langley, Virginia. This fact is identified in Rohrabacher’s OKC bombing report.

This plot information was certainly learned by Philippine and U.S. authorities in the Philippines soon after the fire Ramzi Yousef’s apartment in January 2005 when the authorities examined Yousef’s computer. But this plot information was likely known of even earlier in 1994 because Philippine authorities and Negroponte’s working group had infiltrated and were tracking the plot plans of the Abu Sayef cell of Ramzi Yousef using DIA, FBI, and CIA agents and Philippine undercover agent Edwin Angeles.

It is very likely Rohrabacher learned of the 9/11 style plot information from Philippine authorities and from his friend the U.S. ambassador in the Philippines, John Negroponte during Rohrabacher’s visit to the Philippines April 22-24, 1995. Recall that the Rohrabacher may have also learned of the plot from intelligence memos sent to him by Rohrabacher’s House Task Force Terrorism Director Yousef Bodansky in February to April 1995.

Therefore, we now know that Rohrabacher did in fact know of the 9/11 style plot plans in advance and this explains why Rohrabacher claimed he knew there could be an imminent attack by Al Qaeda in the U.S. around the time of 9/11 when Rohrabacher contacted the office of Condi Rice the day before 9/11. It was Rohrabacher’s knowledge of the 9/11 style plot plans and the murder of his Afghani drug lord friend, Masood, that prompted Rohrabacher to contact the office of Condi Rice.

Rohrabacher had met his friend Masood while on missions to Afghanistan. Masood was the leader of the Northern alliance that the DEA has said was heavily involved in the drug trade. See also 'Taliban planned to supplant the Cali Cartel'
But Rohrabacher also went to Afghanistan for negotiations involving the Taliban terror group that works closely with Al Qaeda.

“During the summer of 2001, Rohrabacher made a trip to Qatar that was paid for by the Islamic Institute and the Government of Qatar, according to Rohrabacher’s financial disclosure forms. While in Qatar, Rohrabacher, Grover Norquist, and Khaled Saffuri met with Taliban Foreign Minister Mullah Wakil Ahmed Muttawakil. Wakil reportedly asked for help in increasing the amount of foreign aid sent by the United States to Afghanistan, apparently in exchange for U.S. oil company UNOCAL being allowed to construct an oil pipeline through Afghanistan. During the April 2001 trip, however – just months before the 9-11 attacks - Rohrabacher met privately with Taliban Foreign Minister Mullah Wakil Ahmed Muttawakil. Wakil on the fringes of the conference, which Norquist and Saffuri also attended. “

“If Rohrabacher was conducting diplomacy, he was in violation of the Logan Act, which prohibits citizens from doing so if not in an official capacity. Rohrabacher told wire service reporters who were present in Doha, Qatar at the time that he had discussed a ‘peace plan’ with the Taliban.”

“Rohrabacher actually has had a history of involvement in Afghanistan dating back to the Cold War, when he and Negroponte and BCCI along with Khashoggi and Mahfouz openly supported and funded the groups that were fighting troops from the Soviet Union in Afghanistan. These groups including fighters under the command of Osama bin Laden, as well as some groups that would later coalesce into the Taliban regime.”

As promised earlier, it will be demonstrated below that Rohrabacher’s other motive for a deficient report and investigation into the OKC bombing and his failure to hold hearings is also related to Rohrabacher’s desire to avoid exposing his continuing connections to known Islamic terrorist backers inside the U.S. that were associated with the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombings and the 9/11 attacks.

Recall that in the State Department document quoted above, Rohrabacher said he once fought briefly on the side of the Mujahidin in Afghanistan. Rohrabacher himself confirms his fighting with the Mujahidin in an article he wrote September 18, 2001 just one week after 9/11, Was U.S. Aiding the Taliban?. In this article Rohrabacher made no mention of his calling Condi Rice the day before 9/11 to warn her of an imminent Al Qaeda attack in the U.S. Rohrabacher waited until June, 2004 to tell the world about his call to Rice. Here are some excerpts from Rohrabacher’s September 18, 2001, article that are most significant:

“After I left the White House and was elected to Congress, but before I was sworn into Congress, I knew I had that two months between November and January to do things that I could never do once I was elected to Congress. I chose to hike into Afghanistan as part of a small Mujahedina unit and to engage in a battle against the Russian and Communist forces near and around the city of Jalalabad.”
“Later, much later, after I had become a Congressman, I met with the head of Saudi intelligence, the man responsible for providing that money to the Afghans during the war, the $200 million or so, or whatever it was that the Saudis provided to the Afghans. His name was General Turkey.”

Rohrabacher is referring to Turki [General Turkey] bin Faisal al-Saud who was head of Saudi intelligence for 25 years. As head of Saudi intelligence, Turki met with Osama bin Laden several times during the 1980s hoping to convince him to lead an army in Afghanistan against the Soviets. Saudi intelligence joined Pakistan's intelligence service (ISI) and the CIA in funding the Mujahidin.

Rohrabacher fought with the Mujahidin, and Rohrabacher “fought” for the policy of having the U.S. support the Mujahidin in Afghanistan against the Russians. There is also a chapter in the State Department document describing Rohrabacher discussing the fact that not all the U.S. stinger missiles given by the U.S. to the Mujahidin were recovered. There has been a concern that former members of the Mujahidin could use these stingers against the U.S. in terror attacks.

Rohrabacher came to know and be friends with the Saudis, Muslim members of the Mujahidin and Afghanistan druglords who helped fight the Russians. Rohrabacher understandably has many sympathies for and friendships with Muslims and the Saudis based on these experiences with them.

Rohrabacher’s reference to his friendship with Saudi head of intelligence General Turkey, aka, Prince Turki Faisal, is extremely significant. On the day of the OKC bombing after the Murrah Building was bombed, Prince Turki called Vincent Cannistraro, the former CIA station chief for the Middle East, and told Cannistraro that Saddam Hussein of Iraq had hired seven Pakistanis to help carry out the OKC bombing. Cannistraro called the FBI, and FBI agent Kevin Foust recorded the Prince Turki account to Cannistraro in an official FBI 302 interview report. McVeigh defense attorney Stephen Jones writes in detail about this story in his book, Others Unknown. Jones learned that the Saudi Arabian Intelligence Service reported that Iraq had hired seven Pakistani mercenaries--Afghani War veterans known as the “Afghan Freedom Fighters or the Mujahadeen”--to bomb targets in the U.S including the Murrah Building in OKC.

Rohrabacher never mentioned this very significant lead and event in his OKC bombing report even though Rohrabacher knew Prince Turki extremely well from Turki’s funding the Mujahidin in Afghanistan.

Anas and Asad Siddiqy and Mohammed Chafti are Pakistanis who were described earlier in this book as having been involved in the 1993 WTC and 1995 OKC bombings. The Siddiqys and Chafti may have been three of these seven Pakistanis Prince Turki claimed Saddam hired to help do the OKC bombing. Rohrabacher also left out mention of the Siddiqys and Chafti in his OKC bombing report.

The Saudi royals including Prince Turki are fully bankrolling the North American Islamic Trust (NAIT) that controls 80% of the Wahhabbist mosques in the U.S. that teach jihad and radical Islam and were directly attended by many of the 9/11 hijackers. NAIT has been on the FBI’s list of Islamic terrorist organizations in the U.S. The Director of NAIT, Mujeeb Cheema, is from Pakistan, has been connected to Pakistani Intelligence (the ISI), and likely was involved in the Rohrabacher and CIA efforts with the Mujahidin against the Russians. Mujeeb worked for Hawkins Oil in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Hawkins board of directors includes Bud MacFarlane, U.S. Secretary of State during Iran Contra, who was an architect of U.S. support for the Mujahidin to fight the Russians, Cheema has also been identified as a major suspect In the OKC bombing by FBI and OKC police Department informant Hanni Kamal. Kamal linked Cheema with the OKC bombing activities of Dr. Samir Khalil and also automobile criminal scams.

Cheema is a leader in a Tulsa mosque that recently ostracized a member who publicly criticized the mosque in a letter to the Tulsa World newspaper. The member criticized mosque leaders for supporting and not condemning AlQaeda and bin Laden terror activities. There is even the possibility that incorrect information was given by Saudi Prince Turki Faisal to Cannistraro about the hiring of seven Pakistanis by Iraq to help in the OKC bombing. But if the information was incorrect, was it disinformation? One has to wonder given the Saudi royals and Prince Turki support of radical Wahhabbism and NAIT and Mujeeeb Cheema.

The FBI and DOJ have ignored evidence about and instead have protected four Pakistanis who may have been some of the seven Pakistanis described by Prince Turki as being hired by Iraq to help do the OKC bombing. The four Pakistanis are the Siddiqy brothers, Mohammed Chafti and Mujeeb Cheema. Rohrabacher knows all of this and yet intentionally left it out of his OKC bombing report. Is Rohrabacher, like the FBI and DOJ, also protecting the four Pakistanis (including Mujeeb Cheema), Prince Turki Faisal and Saudi royal Wahhabbist extremists funding Cheema’s terrorist incubator, NAIT?

Leaving all this information out of his report is a major, inexcusable deficiency and flaw by Rohrabacher that may indicate Rohrabacher’s blind loyalties and sympathies with Muslims and Saudis who are now fomenting terrorism in the U.S. against the U.S.

Are Rohrabacher, the FBI and DOJ protecting Saudi Prince Turki and these Pakistanis from public scrutiny because they may have all been involved in the 1993 WTC bombing and with the CIA’s operation to use the Mujahidin to fight the Russians in Afghanistan? Unfortunately, many Mujahidin members were Pakistanis and even Americans who are in a variety of terror organizations now attacking the U.S. and Israel. The leader of AlQaeda, Bin Laden, was recruited for the Mujahidin to fight the Russians.

There is evidence to suggest that Rohrabacher has in fact been hiding the role of Mujahidin members who fought against the Russians but who now are terror members who have turned against and are now attacking the U.S. Rohrabacher intentionally left out of his report what he knows about American black Muslims like Mujahid Menepta who were trained by the CIA and AlQaeda member Ali Mohammed to fight with the Mujahidin against the Russians but who were also involved in the 1993 WTC and 1995
OKC bombings and 9/11 attacks. Many of these CIA trained black Muslims, like Menepta, are members of the AlFuqra terror organization.

AlFuqra has scores of terror training centers in the U.S. AlFuqra has been responsible for more terror attacks in the U.S. over the past 25 years than all other terror organizations combined. The Beltway snipper, John Muhammed was a member of AlFuqra. Richard Reid, the bomber was an AlFuqra member. There is an AlFuqra center in Red House, Virginia, not far from Camp Peary, site of the CIA training of black Muslims for the Mujahidin. Menepta has direct ties to Red House, Virginia. AlFuqra’s leader is Sheik Jilani who is headquartered in Pakistan and strongly aligned with AlQaeda. Yet AlFuqra is still being intentionally left off the official terrorism lists of the FBI, DOJ, State Department and the CIA. Why?

Rohrabacher, Bodansky and James Saxton have known for years that the CIA trained American black Muslim and AlFuqra terrorist members in the late 1980s at Camp Peary in Virginia to fight with the Mujahidin against the Soviet Union. Egyptian Ali Mohammed was an FBI/AlQaeda double agent who trained black Muslim members for the Mujahidin for the CIA and U.S. Army. However, Ali Mohammed also worked for Bin Laden and Khalid Mohammed. Ali Mohammed also trained the bombers for the 1993 WTC attack who used Menepta’s credit card to buy the explosives for the bombing. He may well have trained the Pakistani Siddiqys and Mohammed Chafti seen with McVeigh in OKC moments before the OKC Murrah Building was blown up.

John Cooley, a former journalist with ABC, wrote in his book, Unholy Wars: Afghanistan, America and International Terrorism, that Muslims were recruited by the CIA to be trained for the Mujahidin at Camp Peary, the CIA’s spy training camp in Virginia. Young Afghans, Pakistanis, Arabs from Egypt and Jordan, and even some African-American black Muslims were taught sabotage skills.

The November 1, 1998, the British Independent reported that one of those charged with the 1998 bombings of U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania, Ali Mohammed, had trained Bin Laden’s Mujahidin fighters in 1989. These Mujahidin fighters were recruited at the al Kifah Refugee Center in Brooklyn, New York (where the Pakistani Siddiqys and Mohammed Chafti lived at the time), given paramilitary training in the New York area and then sent to Afghanistan with U.S. assistance to join Mujahidin forces. Ali Mohammed was a member of the U.S. Army’s elite Green Berets and worked for the CIA, and later the FBI out of Sacramento.

Rohrabacher, like many currently elected U.S. officials, has a deadly blind spot and is being deceived when now dealing with those Muslim and Saudi terror extremists in the U.S. who set up, trained and fought with the Mujahidin and Rohrabacher against the Russians in Afghanistan. Rohrabacher acts blind to the fact that these extremists have now become Islamic terrorists and backers teaching jihad against the U.S. and Israel inside the U.S. at mosques and in U.S. and Oklahoma terror cells.

This blind loyalty may also explain in part why Rohrabacher is not doing more to go after active Islamic terrorists in Oklahoma and the U.S. Included in the 40 pages of documents given to Rohrabacher and discussed with him and his staff by a member of the U.S. intelligence community are details about known terror groups and individuals operating in the OKC area. Rohrabacher was told and given evidence these terrorists were involved in the 1993 WTC, 1995 OKC and 9/11 attacks. Some of these terrorists are also connected to the same Hezbollah groups (see below) that still have strong ties to Rohrabacher. Yet, once again, there is no mention of any of this in Rohrabacher’s report and no effort by Rohrabacher to press this with the White House, or the House and Senate Judiciary and Intelligence Committees.

Rohrabacher has an Islamic extremist friend, Khaled Saffuri, who Rohrabacher has not repudiated or adequately distanced himself from. Khaled Saffuri, a former government affairs director of the American Muslim Council (AMC), has coordinated contributions to Rohrabacher’s re-election campaigns from Muslim donors, some of who today are in federal prison on terrorism-related charges.

Saffuri worked under AMC Executive Director Abdulrahman Alamoudi, who was jailed last October on charges of illegally laundering money from the Libyan government. M.
Hussein AlAmoudi is identified in the lawsuit filed by families of the victims as a financier of 9/11 along with Saudi banker Khalid Mahfouz.

At a September 2000, rally in Lafayette Park in front of the White House, Alamoudi led followers in chanting their support for Hamas and Lebanon’s Hezbollah, both of which are considered as international terrorist organizations by the U.S. government.

During the 2000 election campaign, Rohrabacher’s man Saffuri became the head of Muslim Outreach for the Bush-Cheney campaign, and orchestrated a meeting between then Governor George W. Bush and Al-Arian during a campaign stopover in south Florida even though the Secret Service had specifically warned Bush that Al Arian was a terrorist backer. There was a raid on an OKC mosque believed associated with the OKC bombing looking for AlArian and/or his associate, Ramadan Sallah, now head of Syrian Islamic jihad. The Secret Service had urged Bush not to meet with Rohrabacher, Norquist and AlArian but was ignored.

Since then, Saffuri and Grover Norquist have helped set up meetings in the Oval Office with President GW Bush for AMC and CAIR leaders. White House officials have acknowledged that Alamoudi attended at least one of these sessions with President GW Bush.

See the 2004 story, "Dana Rohrabacher’s Troubling [Terrorist] Friends," by Republican conservative journalist Ken Timmerman. Rohrabacher’s close friend and convicted lobbyist, Jack Abramoff, like Rohrabacher, has also cultivated relationships with Islamic terrorist financiers connected to Osama Bin laden such as Adnan Khashoggi and Kahlid Mahfouz back to the time of the Iran-Contra and BCCI scandals. In the 1980's, Abramoff joined Citizens for America (CFA), a group that helped Oliver North build support for the Nicaraguan contras. Dana Rohrabacher, Grover Norquist and Jack Abramoff were key fundraisers together for Citizens for America (CFA).
WHAT CONGRESS, ROHRABACHER, BUSH AND AMERICANS CAN DO NOW

I have recently had lengthy calls with the staff members of the House and Senate Judiciary committees chaired now by John Conyers and Patrick Leahy respectively. I have recently had lengthy calls with Congressman Rohrabacher staff members about Rohrabacher’s OKC bombing report. I recently have had lengthy conversations with the senior legal counsel for Senator Grassley’s investigators associated with the Senate Judiciary and Finance Committees. Grassley’s investigators told me that the information I referred to them would be brought to the attention of the Senate Judiciary Chairman, Patrick Leahy.

I have told all these staff members that the criminal obstruction of Rohrabacher’s investigation of the OKC bombing by the FBI, CIA and Justice department in Rohrabacher’s report should be addressed by these committees, regardless of party affiliation because they have oversight of the FBI and Justice Department.

I also told all these staff members that Rohrabacher had an obligation and duty to go directly to his long-term friend and leader of the Republican party, President GW Bush, who as head of the Executive branch, has the authority to order the FBI and Justice Department to stop the obstruction and continue a thorough investigation, change policies where needed, and take the appropriate legal actions to get known terrorists involved in the 1993 WTC, 1995 OKC, and 9/11 attacks off the streets now.

I told all these staff members it is imperative that the FBI and Justice Department continue to investigate and take strong actions in the OKC bombing for two vital reasons. First of all, the OKC bombing is still an open murder case of 169 lost lives, a case whose statute of limitations never expires. Secondly the situation remains a current national security threat to the U.S. Those now known and identified to Rohrabacher and the FBI operated criminal terror enterprises involved in the 1993 WTC, 1995 OKC and 9/11 attacks and are quite capable of facilitating another terror attack inside the U.S. with other Islamic terrorists groups and individuals.

My having said all that should be done does not mean it will be done. In fact I doubt these Congressional officials and Bush will do the right thing. However, I wrote this book to give them an opportunity and more importantly to inform the American people of the true terror threat that exists still in America. The sooner that Americans can realize from this book that Congress, the FBI, CIA, the President will not adequately protect them in the U.S., the sooner it will be that the American people can protect themselves and be less likely to be taken unawares as they were on 9/11. Greater realization of this and more self-reliance by the American people will save more lives than anything the U.S. government will ever do.
APPENDIX NOTES

Item 1. In the chapter MUSLIM BROTHERHOOD IN OKLAHOMA, reference was made to this Item 1 giving more information on possible eyewitness sightings of Khalid Mohammed in OKC around the time of the bombing.

Sean Hogan and her husband made sketches of two Middle Eastern men who the Hogans believed they saw casing the Murrah Building on Monday, April 17, 1995, from the Journal Record Building across the street. The Hogans and their family managed the Journal Record building and tried but failed to get the FBI to look at their sketches even though the FBI interviewed Sean Hogan about what she saw en route to the Murrah Building as it was blown up. Sean Hogan’s description of one of the men meets the description and photos of Khalid Shaik Mohammed (KSM). OKC attorney Mike Johnston spoke with former CIA agent Robert Baer, an expert on KSM. Baer told Johnston the timeline of KSM’s whereabouts meant that KSM could have been in OKC around April 19, 1995.

Registration clerk Ruby Foos and a security guard at the Plaza Inn Motel in OKC told William Jasper of The New American magazine and Brad Edwards of KFORTV that two Middle Eastern men checked into the motel the beginning of the week of the bombing. They said the men were wearing robes. And the FBI came and confiscated the registration records for the men within hours of the OKC bombing. The late model brown Chevy truck seen driven by Abraham Ahmad and the Iraqi suspect Al Hussaini (in an FBI all points bulletin) and a Ryder truck were parked near the Plaza Inn early in the morning of the OKC bombing.

The description of the men given by the Plaza Inn employees resembled that of Zawahiri and KSM. Zawahiri was in OKC at the time of the OKC bombing according to Yousef Bodansky, the director of the House Task Force on Terrorism under the Chairmanship of California Congressman Rohrabacher and James Saxton of New Jersey. The two men seen and sketched by the Hogans could have been KSM and Zawahiri.

Sharon Twilley, the secretary for Dr. Samir Khalil said in an affidavit that she had written two checks for KSM the week of the OKC bombing. James Patterson of the Indianapolis Star newspaper reported about this affidavit. Dr. Khalil was the employer of the Iraqi suspect Al Hussaini seen with McVeigh.

Item 2. In the chapter MORE THAN JUST A TRUCK BOMB? reference was made to this Item 2 as describing who could have planted explosives in the Murrah Building and how.

In the chapter GARY HUNT KNEW A PLOT AND SOME PLAYERS information is provided describing eyewitness accounts of three men working in the Murrah Building parking garage possible to plant explosives in the building the week before and the week of the OKC bombing. Two of the men identified by eyewitnesses were McVeigh and the Iraqi suspect Al Hussaini. The third man could have been Gary D. Hunt since witness Jane Graham saw him in the Murrah Building on the morning of the bombing.

Tom E. Hunt of Federal Protective Services described construction that had been going inside the Murrah Building. Men could have posed as workmen on this construction project and could have planted explosives in the Murrah Building. Two men who could have done this are Gary D. Hunt and his Native American Indian companion. Both men were seen dressed in construction clothes at a gas station near the Murrah Building for two weeks up until the bombing. Witnesses at the Grand Continental Hotel in OKC placed Gary D. Hunt in OKC at the time of the OKC bombing.

Ann Domin of the Bureau of Indian Affairs told Tulsa police officer Craig Roberts that she had seen a Middle Eastern man inside and leaving the Murrah Building before the Murrah Building was bombed and just before Abraham Ahmad and Al Hussaini fled together from in front of the Murrah Building in a late model brown Chevy truck with a bug shield. Could the man Ann Domin saw or could Abraham Ahmad and Al Hussaini have helped plant explosives in the Murrah Building? Abraham Ahmad and Al Hussaini worked for the same employer, Dr, Samir Khalil at the time.

Two workmen reported seeing two men in overalls or janitor smocks with flashlights on the third or fourth floor of the Murrah Building around 3am, the morning of the OKC bombing. The workmen told their story to Chuck Allen, a videographer for State Representative Charles Key. The workmen claimed they had been working on the roof of the adjacent Federal Court House.

Two janitors who worked in the Murrah building told the FBI they saw McVeigh and a second man in and around janitor closets in the Murrah Building around 5 pm on the day before the bombing. They told the FBI that they believed McVeigh and the second man had taken janitor smocks from the janitor closets. The men the workman on the roof of the Federal Court House saw inside the Murrah Building at 3 am could have been McVeigh and/or others wearing these janitor smocks.

Tom E. Hunt also said that one security guard checked on the Murrah Building one time during the night as he made his rounds. TEG, a Sante Fe, New Mexico security firm, provided the security for the Murrah Building. At the time of the OKC bombing, the only contract TEG had to provide security was for the Murrah Building. TEG was owned and operated by the Khalsa family whose family members were Sikhs and close friends and donors to President Clinton and New Mexico governor Bill Richardson.

The Murrah Building safety officer, Dr Paul Heath, told William Jasper of The New American magazine that security was lax in the Murrah Building and that it was easy to get access (by those wanting to plant explosives?) to the Murrah Building by a side door after hours by sliding a credit card inside the door lock latch. Dr. Heath was also a Veterans Affairs psychologist who worked in the Murrah Building. Dr. Heath reported talking to McVeigh, Michael Fortier and a Native American Indian at Heath’s office in the Murrah Building on a Friday afternoon around 3 pm on April 7, 1995.
DEA agent Kevin Waters testified at the Terry Nichols state trial that Waters had seen McVeigh’s car parked in front of the Murrah Building at 9pm the night before the OKC bombing. Waters testified that he called in the plate number on McVeigh’s car that night. Given the very limited security provided by TEG and the easy late night access described by Dr. Heath, McVeigh and/or others driving McVeigh’s car could have planted explosives in the Murrah Building that night.

Pentagon terror advisor Jesse Clear repeated his belief several times during his investigation in OKC (September 1996) that McVeigh and Nichols could have used a remote detonator built from a TV set. Clear noted that McVeigh had urged Nichols several times to bring an old TV set with him from Las Vegas.
