The Rune of Life is the symbol of Cosmotheism. It is one of the characters of the ancient runic alphabet used many centuries ago by Northern Europeans. You may be more familiar with its inverted image which is the symbol of the Peace Movement. The Life Rune represents the figure of a man with arms stretched upward to indicate birth. The inverted symbol indicates death. Both were used on early Northern European gravestones followed by the time of the person's birth and death. The Peace Movement symbol therefore represents the peace of death. By contrast, the Life Rune, the symbol of the Cosmotheist Community Church, is the symbol for birth, life and renewal.
